Truman and French Foreign Minister Pass Up "Political Problems" in Conversation

Paris Finally Agrees That French Loan Was Not Discussed

BRIEF GREETINGS ARE EXCHANGED BY PHONE

Truman Had Been Reported as Saying Loan Prospects Were Bright

By A. I. GOLDBERG

PARIS, Thursday, May 2 (AP)—The chief spokesman of the French foreign affairs ministry declared in a formal statement early today that Foreign Minister Georges Bidault and President Truman had not discussed "political problems" in their transatlantic telephone conversation yesterday.

The statement was issued hours after an official French source—who would not allow himself to be identified—had said Bidault had told him that he (Bidault) had been assured by Truman during the conversation that prospects were bright for approval of an American loan to France.

Byrnes, Bidault Confer

Raymond Offroy, the foreign affairs ministry spokesman, said in his formal statement:

"During a conversation between Mr. Byrnes (United States Secretary of State James F. Byrnes) and Mr. Bidault, the question of an American loan and the one of the French food needs, especially wheat, were discussed in a most favorable manner.

"It was during this discussion that Mr. Bidault had an opportunity to speak for a few minutes by telephone with President Truman, but in this conversation no political problems were discussed."

The Truman-Bidault transatlantic telephone conversation — details of which as subsequently reported Paris were denied in a statement from the White House at Washington—occurred during the course of a three-hour meeting between Bidault and Byrnes.

(In Washington, Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross said Truman and Bidault had merely exchanged brief greetings, without discussing any business or political affairs.

Amount Not Disclosed

(They talked at the end of a fifteen-minute conversation between Truman and Byrnes. Asked whether Truman had discussed the French loan with Byrnes, Ross said the president had discussed "the whole work" of the foreign ministers conference with Byrnes.

(The amount of the loan being negotiated in the United States by Leon Blum, former French premier, has not been officially disclosed. However, a French official publication on February 25 said the United States had agreed to investigate France's needs for a loan, which

Negro, Granddaughter Of Slave, Is Elected American Mother of '46

NEW YORK, May 1—(AP)—Mrs. Emma Clarissa Clement, Louisville, Ky., granddaughter of a slave, today was chosen as the American mother of 1946 by the American Mothers Committee of the Golden Rule Foundation. Mrs. Clement, the first negro elected, is 71 years old and has seven children.

Mrs. Clement, whose children include the president of Atlanta university, Atlanta, Ga.; a professor of physics, a professor of English and an army chaplain, is former national president of the Women's Society of the African Methodist church.

Mrs. Clement's election was announced by Mrs. Harper Sibley, Rochester, N. Y., American mother of 1945.

Byrnes Proposes Reducing Allied Force in Austria

Simultaneous Evacuation of Italy and Austria Is Recommended

PARIS, May 1 (AP)—United States Secretary of State James F. Byrnes urged the foreign ministers conference today to reduce Allied occupation forces in Austria immediately and to plan simultaneous Allied evacuation of both Italy and Austria, a qualified conference source reported.

Byrnes asked that occupation garrisons be limited to 15,000 troops in each Austrian zone, and that their complete evacuation later coincide with the withdrawal of troops from Italy, this source said.

The proposals were made during a discussion of the Italian peace treaty. Byrnes said that so long as American troops remained in Austria, they would have to be maintained in Italy to protect supply lines.

Soviet Foreign Minister Vyacheslav M. Molotov, presiding, ruled that the matter of Austrian occupation could not be discussed in connection with the Italian treaty. Informants reported Molotov said the question should be raised if and when they examine the Austrian settlement. Thus far Russia has opposed United States proposals to add Austrian problems to the conference agenda.

Byrnes and Molotov disagreed when Byrnes proposed a general overall political-military commission with subcommittees to supervise imposition of the Italian peace treaty terms.

Molotov, reportedly reversing his position of last September, when he voted with the foreign ministers council in London for a military council for post-treaty control of Italy, was said to have advocated no commission at all.

Informants said he contended such a commission would constitute an infringement upon Italian sovereignty. It was noted here that under last September's decision similar mixed commissions also would have supervised treaty compliance in Bulgaria, Romania and Hungary.

Byrnes was reported to have withdrawn his proposal for a political-military commission, but to have remarked that the London decision still stood.

Tojo Declares Japanese Fought "Righteous" War

Ex-Premier Says He Hoped 1941 Peace Talks Would Be Successful

By RUSSELL BRINES

TOKYO, May 1 (AP) — Ex-Premier Hideki Tojo, indicted with other war leaders Monday for "crimes against peace x x against humanity", insisted from his cell today that Japan had fought a "righteous" war for freedom and equality of nations.

Tojo declared that if in 1941 Japan, "as an independent country," could have taken any other way than war "I would have taken it." He emphasized that he had hoped until the last that the 1941 peace talks in Washington would be successful.

Japan's wartime premier made these statements — his first specific comments on war issues since his country's capitulation — in an exclusive, written interview through his chief Japanese defense counsel, Ichiro Kiyose.

Writing his answers to ten questions in clear, bold characters, Tojo admitted that he had opposed Japan's surrender last year and urged continued last-ditch resistance. He denied, however, that he had taken any action forcibly to prevent the emperor's surrender rescript.

Tojo reiterated the Japanese propaganda line about an Asiatic coprosperity sphere, and indicated he would base his defense largely on the "righteousness" of Japan's war aims.

"We did not want to invade any Oriental countries," he said. "I thought this was a war to emancipate Oriental countries from foreign influences and enjoy a co-prosperity sphere of freedom and equality."

Tojo, who tried to kill himself rather than submit to arrest as a war crimes suspect last September, declined to answer this question.

"Do you feel now that it was better that you lived through your suicide attempt?"

He said he was "surprised" when named premier in 1941, although the late Prince Konoye and others said Tojo had engineered the cabinet downfall that placed him in power.

He said he "of course" believed at the outset that Japan would win the war, but declined to express an

Great Britain Makes Bid For U.S. Aid To Carry Out Joint Palestine Policy

Protest over Anglo-American Committee Report Threatens To Erupt in Violence; Arab Higher Committee Calls for Strike on Friday

LONDON, May 1 (AP) — Britain bid today for United States military and financial aid to carry out a joint policy in Palestine, as an uproar of protest over the British-American inquiry committee report threatened to erupt in violence.

Jews and Arabs alike assailed the report, and in Jerusalem the Arab Higher Committee called for a general strike Friday by all Arabs in Palestine "as a first step to show our utmost dissatisfaction." An unconfirmed report said the committee also had sent cables to Washington and London repudiating the report, and reiterating demands for an independent Palestine.

In London, Prime Minister Attlee said Britain wanted to know "to what extent the United States government would be prepared to share the resultant military and financial responsibilities" for administration of Palestine, which the British inherited as a League of Nations mandate.

Britain wants to be satisfied, he told the House of Commons, "that it will not be called upon to implement a policy which would involve it single-handed" in "heavy, immediate and long-term commitments." He said the government would "get in touch with the government of the United States as soon as possible."

The inquiry committee's report recommended the immediate immigration of 100,000 Jews into Palestine and that Palestine should be neither a Jewish nor an Arab state. British policy as outlined in the 1939 white paper has been to permit entry of about 16,000 Jews annually.

Attlee, expressing some misgivings over the immigration recommendation, declared that such large numbers of migrant Jews could not be admitted before "illegal armies have been disbanded and surrender their arms." He asked Jews and Arabs both to disarm.

"It is essential that the (Jewish) agency should take a positive part in the suppression of these activities," he said, adding that Britain hoped "both Jewish and Arab leaders will give counsel of patience and restraint."

In Cairo, however, Abdul Rahman Azzam Pasha, secretary general of the Arab League, said his group would "take all measures" against the recommendations, which he said would "encourage elements of terrorism and continual disturbance" and "push the peace-loving Arabs to desperation."

Similarly, a Jewish underground radio station, "The Voice of Isreal," said that while it appreciated "Anglo-American goodwill" in proposing the 100,000 figure, Jews would continue to fight "for Jewish independence, unlimited Jewish immigration and further large-scale colonization."

Jewish spokesmen, while welcoming with reservations the 100,000 figure, strongly criticized the report as inconsistent and insufficient.

May Day Brings Some Disorders; Millions March

Two Bombs Explode in Madrid; Thousands Parade in New York

[By The Associated Press]

Millions of workers—from Moscow and Berlin to Tokyo and Singapore—paraded or demonstrated yesterday with fanfare and sometimes disorders in celebrations of May day.

Two bombs exploded in Madrid, capital of the Franco regime, wrecking luxury food stores near a poor residential district.

In Trieste, more than 50,000 Yugoslavs marched through streets of the disputed city, shouting "Viva Tito, viva Stalin."

Fascist diehards — fanatical followers of the dead Mussolini—made brief forays against Communist headquarters and Communist-Socialist newspapers in Rome. One group burst into a Rome radio station and, with pointed guns, forced the broadcast of "Giovinezza," their outlawed hymn, from a record they brought with them. Italian workers held assemblies to celebrate labor's gains.

In Moscow, soldiers and civilians paraded for six hours through Red square, past Generalissimo Stalin on the reviewing stand, in the nation's greatest peacetime show of strength.

Banners urged Russian workers to boost production.

Marching Russians sang the Internationale and twenty-gun salutes boomed in Moscow, union republic capitals, and "hero" cities.

In Tokyo, some 400,000 Japanese celebrated May day for the first time in eleven years, and Socialist Kanju Kato declared labor might stage a general strike if a single party cabinet was formed by the rightist liberals. Police were alert for fanatics accused of a plot to assassinate Gen. MacArthur.

In New York, thousands of labor union workers—some in uniforms of the nation's armed forces despite advice from military officials that it was against regulations—marched down Manhattan's Eighth avenue in the city's first May day parade in five years.

At the same time, the National Committee of the Communist party, U.S.A., in a statement published in a special issue of the "Daily Work-

Month-Old Bituminous Coal Strike Is Wrecking Nation, Operators' Spokesman Says

United Mine Workers' Chief Is Blamed for "Desperate Situation"

STRIKE COST MINERS $100,000,000 IN APRIL

Lewis Summons UMW Policy Committee To Meet Tuesday

By HAROLD W. WARD

WASHINGTON, May 1 (AP) — Charles O'Neill, spokesman for the operators, asserted tonight the month-old soft coal strike is wrecking the country.

It is the costliest strike in the nation's history and has led it to "the brink of disaster greater than anything since Pearl Harbor," O'Neill said in a speech prepared for nationwide broadcast.

Blaming "this desperate situation" on John L. Lewis, chief of the United Mine Workers, O'Neill asserted the walkout had cost the workers $100,000,000 in wages in April.

O'Neill, representing the bituminous operators' negotiating committee, spoke as reports came of railroads trimming service to save coal. In addition, the Illinois Commerce Commission ordered nine public utility companies to curtail delivery of electricity to industrial users.

O'Neill asserted "the complete stoppage of essential public services is now in sight."

UMW Policy Group To Meet

Lewis, he said, had demanded agreement in principle upon a royalty tax on coal.

He termed the strike "the first in our history to establish the right to a 'dole.'"

The operators, he said, are ready to work out an agreement carrying higher pay rates.

Negotiations which resumed this week after a nineteen-day breakdown were in a snarl and Lewis unexpectedly summoned the 250-man policy committee of his union to meet here next Tuesday.

Whether this indicated some change in strategy by the mine union leader was not disclosed. He carefully refrained from public explanation of the move.

The Association of American Railroads reported that most of the carriers have reduced local freight runs from a daily to a thrice-weekly basis. Class 1 railroads, it was estimated, have on hand an average coal supply for twenty-six or twenty-seven days but some have much less. Five railroads, which the association did not name, reported today that they have only a ten-day supply.

At Baltimore, the Pennsylvania railroad advised the public service

"Brownout" Is Ordered In Illinois as Coal Supplies Diminish

CHICAGO, May 1 (AP) — A drastic order virtually closing down all after-dark public activities, and limiting supply of electricity to industrial plants to twenty-four hours per week was issued today by the Illinois Commerce Commission because of rapidly diminishing coal supplies as a result of the nationwide soft coal strike.

The sweeping order affects some 1,300 Illinois communities and was issued by the commission after hearing testimony that utility coal stocks would be exhausted by May 21.

The order, effective immediately, provided curtailment of electricity to industrial users and a return to the "brownout" of the February-May, 1945, period.

Bowles Warns Of "Compromise" OPA Amendments

Anderson Would Favor Ending Meat Controls if Shortage Continues

WASHINGTON, May 1.—(AP)—Chester Bowles tonight advised the public not to be duped by "compromise" amendments now being proposed to replace the amendments fixed by the House to the OPA extension bill.

The public uproar over the "dangerous and highly inflationary" House bill has caused OPA's opponents to beat a seeming retreat, the stabilization director said in a radio address on the Mutual network.

"But—and let me make this warning absolutely clear—let's not be fooled by former opponents of firm price control who suddenly protest that they are really on our side."

He urged consumers to continue their vigorous protests against a weakened price act, declaring: "You are opposed by a small but well-organized group of lobbyists who are filling the hotels here in Washington right now."

Secretary of Agriculture Anderson said earlier in the day that price control on meat should be abandoned unless a ninety-day test period showed that packers could get livestock in "something like normal" volume.

He agreed, in an appearance at Senate Banking committee hearings, with the packers' contentions that those who stayed within ceiling prices had been unable to get stock for slaughter.

Later, he told reporters that any dropping of controls should be experimental, with the government retaining power to reimpose them.

Anderson said that two things may correct the situation: (1) New quotas designed to route to slaughterers the same volume they had in 1944 and (2) a campaign to prevent diversion to black markets and other abnormal sources of trade.

"This is about the last effort to see if it will work," he told Sen. Barkeley (D-Ky) in a discussion of meat control.

Barkley had related that a stockman "in whom I have every confidence" stated that while he normally slaughtered 7,000 head a week he can now get but 500. Anderson called this a typical case.

"Large, reliable companies can't get cattle in the (price) compliance range," he said. "They run up against people who don't care about the compliance range and these people take it away from them.

"That's why slaughter quotas were restored."

Anderson said the quotas were effective earlier and they might turn the trick again, although he said packers were not convinced they would help enough.

Council Indorses O'Conor Tax Plan

BALTIMORE, May 1—(AP)—Gov. O'Conor's proposal that federal income taxes be made deductible in computing state income taxes, today received the indorsement of the Legislative council.

The council asked the attorney general to prepare a bill embodying the proposal, for submission to the next General Assembly.

The Maryland Franchise Motor Operators Association renewed a request to the council for a reduction in the license rate for inter-city buses, from one-eighteenth to one-thirty-sixth of a cent per passenger seat mile. Robert Archer, attorney, appeared on behalf of the association.

Albert W. Ward, state tax commission secretary, said a special subcommittee studying the question had found discrimination in taxes on inter-city buses, zone buses and freight trucks, adding that the former were paying more than their proportionate share. Ward said inter-city buses were being taxed at the rate of 6.8 per cent of gross receipts, zone buses operating in limited areas, 1.8 per sent, and freight trucks, less than one per cent.

Earlier the council received from Robert France, chairman of the commission on motor vehicle legislation, several proposals for changes in motor vehicle laws.

Great Day Dawns For Speleologists

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, May 1. (AP)—Oh, but these are exhilarating days for a speleologist!

The army and navy are thinking about moving some key military plants underground.

And this makes National Speleology Society members, who peek in caves for fun and science, as happy as a bunch of moles in a well-stocked vegetable garden.

"Every cave in the country," William Stephenson, national president, said today, "should be plotted and diagrammed. The cave is our main hope in an atomic war."

The five-year-old society, which hopes to have 1,000 members by the end of the year, began because caves are the last frontier for the pioneer.

"Even now," Stephenson told a reporter, "no one has any idea how many large caves there are in the country."

But the war, with its bombs, gave the society a mission. Stephenson is convinced the cave-counting and remodeling should start at once.

Caves, he says, make swell storerooms for strategic materials. They also make excellent factories.

Navy Court-Martial For Negro Is Ordered

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 1—(AP)—Chief Steward Walter W. Rollins, 46, a negro, was accused officially by the Navy department today of embezzlement, theft, drinking, gambling and permitting "loud and boisterous" conduct by unauthorized visitors to his quarters at the North Severn Officers' club, part of the United States Naval Academy.

Vice Adm. Aubrey W. Fitch, academy superintendent, announced that the secretry of the navy had ordered a general court-martial for Rollins to begin Monday, May 6, or as soon thereafter as practicable. If Rollins requests time to prepare his defense, the court-martial will be delayed a short while. The trial will be open to the press only.

U.N. Group Begins Spanish Inquiry

By FRANCIS W. CARPENTER

NEW YORK, May 1 (AP) — The United Nations Security Council subcommittee investigating Franco Spain plunged into a mass of 461 separate documents on the Spanish question today at its first secret meeting.

A communique said most communications urged recognition of the Spanish Republican government "while some advocate that a new regime should be established in Spain on the basis of a free democratic election."

Only two telegrams and three letters were indirectly favorable to Franco. They objected to any interference in the internal affairs of Spain.

The documents were letters and telegrams received from private individuals and non-governmental bodies on the Spanish question between January 1, 1946, and April 30. The communique said the United Nations secretary-general has been ordered to ask every member of the United Nations to supply all relevant material on the Spanish question.

The subcommittee said it carefully considered procedure and methods of work "because this is the first time that such studies are being undertaken by the United Nations." It will meet again next Monday at 3 p. m. (EST).

Forrestal Blasts Merger Measure

WASHINGTON, May 1. (AP)—Secretary of the Navy Forrestal today lambasted anew legislation to merge the armed forces, although praising President Truman's "basic objective" of postwar unification.

Appearing before the Senate Naval committee, Forrestal lashed out at what he termed the "army plan for merger"—a bill aimed to carry out the president's recommendations, which already has been approved by the Senate Military committee.

After presenting a formal statement, which was made public, Forrestal was in closed session with the committee for two hours. Chairman Walsh (D-Mass) told reporters afterward that members peppered the cabinet member with questions.

Instead of abolishing the present War and Navy departments with their cabinet posts, Walsh said Forrestal suggested addition of a new cabinet post of "director of common defense," who would act for the president in co-ordinating necessary relationships between the secretaries of war, navy, state, and other agencies.

Walsh said Forrestal declined comment on suggestions for a separate air force department with cabinet representation as "outside my domain."

President Truman recently rebuked what he termed lobbying by some navy leaders against unification. Later he excluded Forrestal and Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz from these remarks.

Curran Charges Meyer Was Placed In Congressional Race by Pollack

BALTIMORE, May 1. (AP)—Attorney General William Curran charged today that John A. Meyer, candidate for the Democratic nomination in the Fourth congressional district, was put in the field by James H. (Jack) Pollack.

Both Curran and Pollack are Baltimore city Democratic leaders.

Meyer countered with a statement saying, "it is high time that someone made a demand on Mr. Curran to immediately resign the office of attorney general or abondon his active and partisan campaigning."

Curran said in a statement that the way for Meyer's candidacy in opposition to the renomination bid of the incumbent, Rep. George H. Fallon, was facilitated by the forces supporting W. Preston Lane, Jr., Hagerstown.

Lane is a candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination. Curran has announced publicly his support of Comptroller J. Millard Tawes, another gubernatorial aspirant.

The attorney general, entering the political arena publicly for the second time since his self-announced "furlough" started last summer, said the Meyer candidacy was facilitated by James J. Lacy and Samuel H. Hoffberger.

Lacy is candidate for comptroller on the Lane ticket and Hoffberger is Lane campaign treasurer.

Lane said his ticket had not formally adopted Meyer as the Fourth congressional district candidate and Lacy added that he had made no personal commitments in that district.

"Both Mr. Lacy and Mr. Hoffberger," Curran said, "now emphatically deny that they got Mr. Meyer to run against Congressman Fallon. I am glad to learn that. Now let them speak up and say they will support Mr. Fallon."

Meyer's statement added that "so long as he (Curran) did not reassert his boss leadership and publicly indorse and formally support the ticket of his choice, there was little danger of his incumbency adversely affecting the public good.

"But now that he has definitely decided to throw his political weight around the state to directly influence the votes of the people in

Note Demanding $15,000 Was Sent To Dorothy Lamour, Official Says

BALTIMORE, May 1 (AP)—A disclosure that Dorothy Lamour was the object of a $15,000 extortion attempt came on the heels today of the recovery of $29,000 in jewelry and other valuables lost by the screen actress and her husband in a Baltimore theft last week.

An official, who asked not to be identified further, said Miss Lamour received the extortion note, postmarked in Baltimore Saturday, at the suburban home of her socialite husband, William Ross Howard, III, on Monday.

The note, written in pencil on manila paper and enclosed in a white envelope, said:

"Put $15,000 in the third pew right side of St. Ignatius church (Park avenue and Saratoga street) at Sunday service."

The note made an error in addresses. The church at the specified address is St. Alphonsus. St. Ignatius church is ten blocks away.

The note was turned over to the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the official said. The agent in charge of the local FBI office declined to comment.

Miss Lamour came to Baltimore last week for "a well-earned rest" and the christening of her 3-months-old son, John Ridgely Howard, Sunday.

The visit was anything but restful.

Shortly after she and her husband arrived in Baltimore Thursday night, a suitcase containing the gems and valuables was stolen from a car parked near a downtown hotel.

The actress spent most of the night at the police station describing her loss.

On Monday, the official said, she received the extortion note and turned it over to police.

Last night, police informed her that an anonymous telephone tip had led to the recovery of some of the lost valuables. She went to the police station again to identify the jewelry.

When police found all the rest of the loot but a fur coat and the suitcase early this morning, she remained at the station to continue identification.

Police said three negroes were held in the theft but had not yet been charged.

Randolph, Harris Warn Industry Might Have To Be Nationalized

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 1—(AP)—Two congressmen told the United States Chamber of Commerce today that the country faces possible nationalization of industry unless existing labor-management and transportation problems can be solved.

Rep. Jennings Randolph (D-W. Va.), acting chairman of the House Labor committee, said at a round table discussion that if labor and management did not "stop this pulling and hauling, then we might as well recognize that we face nationalization of industry as a possible alternative."

Rep. Oren Harris (D-Ark.) predicted that American transportation might have to be nationalized if Congress could not work out a formula permitting privately-financed lines to make a profit in competition with government-aided port.

Tojo Declares Japanese Fought "Righteous" War

Ex-Premier Says He Hoped 1941 Peace Talks Would Be Successful

By RUSSELL BRINES

TOKYO, May 1 (AP) — Ex-Premier Hideki Tojo, indicted with other war leaders Monday for "crimes against peace x x against humanity", insisted from his cell today that Japan had fought a "righteous" war for freedom and equality of nations.

Tojo declared that if in 1941 Japan, "as an independent country," could have taken any other way than war "I would have taken it." He emphasized that he had hoped until the last that the 1941 peace talks in Washington would be successful.

Japan's wartime premier made these statements — his first specific comments on war issues since his country's capitulation — in an exclusive, written interview through his chief Japanese defense counsel, Ichiro Kiyose.

Writing his answers to ten questions in clear, bold characters, Tojo admitted that he had opposed Japan's surrender last year and urged continued last-ditch resistance. He denied, however, that he had taken any action forcibly to prevent the emperor's surrender rescript.

Tojo reiterated the Japanese propaganda line about an Asiatic coprosperity sphere, and indicated he would base his defense largely on the "righteousness" of Japan's war aims.

"We did not want to invade any Oriental countries," he said. "I thought this was a war to emancipate Oriental countries from foreign influences and enjoy a co-prosperity sphere of freedom and equality."

Tojo, who tried to kill himself rather than submit to arrest as a war crimes suspect last September, declined to answer this question.

"Do you feel now that it was better that you lived through your suicide attempt?"

He said he was "surprised" when named premier in 1941, although the late Prince Konoye and others said Tojo had engineered the cabinet downfall that placed him in power.

He said he "of course" believed at the outset that Japan would win the war, but declined to express an (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

Great Britain Makes Bid For U.S. Aid To Carry Out Joint Palestine Policy

Protest over Anglo-American Committee Report Threatens To Erupt in Violence; Arab Higher Committee Calls for Strike on Friday

LONDON, May 1 (AP) — Britain bid today for United States military and financial aid to carry out a joint policy in Palestine, as an uproar of protest over the British-American inquiry committee report threatened to erupt in violence.

Jews and Arabs alike assailed the report, and in Jerusalem the Arab Higher Committee called for a general strike Friday by all Arabs in Palestine "as a first step to show our utmost dissatisfaction." An unconfirmed report said the committee also had sent cables to Washington and London repudiating the report, and reiterating demands for an independent Palestine.

In London, Prime Minister Attlee said Britain wanted to know "to what extent the United States government would be prepared to share the resultant military and financial responsibilities" for administration of Palestine, which the British inherited as a League of Nations mandate.

Britain wants to be satisfied, he told the House of Commons, "that it will not be called upon to implement a policy which would involve it single-handed" in "heavy, immediate and long-term commitments." He said the government would "get in touch with the government of the United States as soon as possible."

The inquiry committee's report recommended the immediate immigration of 100,000 Jews into Palestine and that Palestine should be neither a Jewish nor an Arab state. British policy as outlined in the 1939 white paper has been to permit entry of about 16,000 Jews annually.

Attlee, expressing some misgivings over the immigration recommendation, declared that such large numbers of migrant Jews could not be admitted before "illegal armies have been disbanded and surrender their arms." He asked Jews and Arabs both to disarm.

"It is essential that the (Jewish) agency should take a positive part in the suppression of these activities," he said, adding that Britain hoped "both Jewish and Arab leaders will give counsel of patience and restraint."

In Cairo, however, Abdul Rahman Azzam Pasha, secretary general of the Arab League, said his group would "take all measures" against the recommendations, which he said would "encourage elements of terrorism and continual disturbance" and "push the peace-loving Arabs to desperation."

Similarly, a Jewish underground radio station, "The Voice of Isreal," said that while it appreciated "Anglo-American goodwill" in proposing the 100,000 figure, Jews would continue to fight "for Jewish independence, unlimited Jewish immigration and further large-scale colonization."

Jewish spokesmen, while welcoming with reservations the 100,000 figure, strongly criticized the report as inconsistent and insufficient.

U.N. Group Begins Spanish Inquiry

By FRANCIS W. CARPENTER

NEW YORK, May 1 (AP) — The United Nations Security Council subcommittee investigating Franco Spain plunged into a mass of 461 separate documents on the Spanish question today at its first secret meeting.

A communique said most communications urged recognition of the Spanish Republican government "while some advocate that a new regime should be established in Spain on the basis of a free democratic election."

Only two telegrams and three letters were indirectly favorable to Franco. They objected to any interference in the internal affairs of Spain.

The documents were letters and telegrams received from private individuals and non-governmental bodies on the Spanish question between January 1, 1946, and April 30. The communique said the United Nations secretary-general has been ordered to ask every member of the United Nations to supply all relevant material on the Spanish question.

The subcommittee said it carefully considered procedure and methods of work "because this is the first time that such studies are being undertaken by the United Nations." It will meet again next Monday at 3 p. m. (EST).

Garbage Men Strike

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 1. (AP)—Memphis garbage collectors left their jobs in a demand for increased wages today shortly after 700 street car and bus operators voted to call off their scheduled walkout.

Forrestal Blasts Merger Measure

WASHINGTON, May 1. (AP)—Secretary of the Navy Forrestal today lambasted anew legislation to merge the armed forces, although praising President Truman's "basic objective" of postwar unification.

Appearing before the Senate Naval committee, Forrestal lashed out at what he termed the "army plan for merger"—a bill aimed to carry out the president's recommendations, which already has been approved by the Senate Military committee.

After presenting a formal statement, which was made public, Forrestal was in closed session with the committee for two hours. Chairman Walsh (D-Mass) told reporters afterward that members peppered the cabinet member with questions.

Instead of abolishing the present War and Navy departments with their cabinet posts, Walsh said Forrestal suggested addition of a new cabinet post of "director of common defense," who would act for the president in co-ordinating necessary relationships between the secretaries of war, navy, state, and other agencies.

Walsh said Forrestal declined comment on suggestions for a separate air force department with cabinet representation as "outside my domain."

President Truman recently rebuked what he termed lobbying by some navy leaders against unification. Later he excluded Forrestal and Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz from these remarks.

May Day Brings Some Disorders; Millions March

Two Bombs Explode in Madrid; Thousands Parade in New York

[By The Associated Press]

Millions of workers—from Moscow and Berlin to Tokyo and Singapore—paraded or demonstrated yesterday with fanfare and sometimes disorders in celebrations of May day.

Two bombs exploded in Madrid, capital of the Franco regime, wrecking luxury food stores near a poor residential district.

In Trieste, more than 50,000 Yugoslavs marched through streets of the disputed city, shouting "Viva Tito, viva Stalin."

Fascist diehards — fanatical followers of the dead Mussolini—made brief forays against Communist headquarters and Communist-Socialist newspapers in Rome. One group burst into a Rome radio station and, with pointed guns, forced the broadcast of "Giovinezza," their outlawed hymn, from a record they brought with them. Italian workers held assemblies to celebrate labor's gains.

In Moscow, soldiers and civilians paraded for six hours through Red square, past Generalissimo Stalin on the reviewing stand, in the nation's greatest peacetime show of strength.

Banners urged Russian workers to boost production.

Marching Russians sang the Internationale and twenty-gun salutes boomed in Moscow, union republic capitals, and "hero" cities.

In Tokyo, some 400,000 Japanese celebrated May day for the first time in eleven years, and Socialist Kanju Kato declared labor might stage a general strike if a single party cabinet was formed by the rightist liberals. Police were alert for fanatics accused of a plot to assassinate Gen. MacArthur.

In New York, thousands of labor union workers—some in uniforms of the nation's armed forces despite advice from military officials that it was against regulations—marched down Manhattan's Eighth avenue in the city's first May day parade in five years.

At the same time, the National Committee of the Communist party, U.S.A., in a statement published in a special issue of the "Daily Work- (Continued on Page 2; Col. 2)

Curran Charges Meyer Was Placed In Congressional Race by Pollack

BALTIMORE, May 1. (AP)—Attorney General William Curran charged today that John A. Meyer, candidate for the Democratic nomination in the Fourth congressional district, was put in the field by James H. (Jack) Pollack.

Both Curran and Pollack are Baltimore city Democratic leaders.

Meyer countered with a statement saying, "it is high time that someone made a demand on Mr. Curran to immediately resign the office of attorney general or abondon his active and partisan campaigning."

Curran said in a statement that the way for Meyer's candidacy in opposition to the renomination bid of the incumbent, Rep. George H. Fallon, was facilitated by the forces supporting W. Preston Lane, Jr., Hagerstown.

Lane is a candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination. Curran has announced publicly his support of Comptroller J. Millard Tawes, another gubernatorial aspirant.

The attorney general, entering the political arena publicly for the second time since his self-announced "furlough" started last summer, said the Meyer candidacy was facilitated by James J. Lacy and Samuel H. Hoffberger.

Lacy is candidate for comptroller on the Lane ticket and Hoffberger is Lane campaign treasurer.

Lane said his ticket had not formally adopted Meyer as the Fourth congressional district candidate and Lacy added that he had made no personal commitments in that district.

"Both Mr. Lacy and Mr. Hoffberger," Curran said, "now emphatically deny that they got Mr. Meyer to run against Congressman Fallon. I am glad to learn that. Now let them speak up and say they will support Mr. Fallon."

Meyer's statement added that "so long as he (Curran) did not reassert his boss leadership and publicly indorse and formally support the ticket of his choice, there was little danger of his incumbency adversely affecting the public good.

"But now that he has definitely decided to throw his political weight around the state to directly influence the votes of the people in (Continued on Page 2, Col. 4)

Month-Old Bituminous Coal Strike Is Wrecking Nation, Operators' Spokesman Says

"Brownout" Is Ordered In Illinois as Coal Supplies Diminish

CHICAGO, May 1 (AP) — A drastic order virtually closing down all after-dark public activities, and limiting supply of electricity to industrial plants to twenty-four hours per week was issued today by the Illinois Commerce Commission because of rapidly diminishing coal supplies as a result of the nation-wide soft coal strike.

The sweeping order affects some 1,300 Illinois communities and was issued by the commission after hearing testimony that utility coal stocks would be exhausted by May 21.

The order, effective immediately, provided curtailment of electricity to industrial users and a return to the "brownout" of the February-May, 1945, period.

Bowles Warns Of "Compromise" OPA Amendments

Anderson Would Favor Ending Meat Controls if Shortage Continues

WASHINGTON, May 1. — (AP) — Chester Bowles tonight advised the public not to be duped by "compromise" amendments now being proposed to replace the amendments fixed by the House to the OPA extension bill.

The public uproar over the "dangerous and highly inflationary" House bill has caused OPA's opponents to beat a seeming retreat, the stabilization director said in a radio address on the Mutual network.

"But—and let me make this warning absolutely clear—let's not be fooled by former opponents of firm price control who suddenly protest that they are really on our side."

He urged consumers to continue their vigorous protests against a weakened price act, declaring: "You are opposed by a small but well-organized group of lobbyists who are filling the hotels here in Washington right now."

Secretary of Agriculture Anderson said earlier in the day that price control on meat should be abandoned unless a ninety-day test period shows that packers could get livestock in "something like normal" volun.

He agreed, in an appearance at Senate Banking committee hearings, with the packers' contentions that those who stayed within ceiling prices had been unable to get stock for slaughter.

Later, he told reporters that any dropping of controls should be experimental, with the government retaining power to reimpose them.

Anderson said that two things may correct the situation: (1) New quotas designed to route to slaughterers the same volume they had in 1944 and (2) a campaign to prevent diversion to black markets and other abnormal sources of trade.

"This is about the last effort to see if it will work," he told Sen. Barkeley (D-Ky) in a discussion of meat control.

Barkley had related that a stockman "in whom I have every confidence" stated that while he normally slaughtered 7,000 head a week he can now get but 500. Anderson called this a typical case.

"Large, reliable companies can't get cattle in the (price) compliance range," he said. "They run up against people who don't care about the compliance range and these people take it away from them.

"That's why slaughter quotas were restored."

Anderson said the quotas were effective earlier and they might turn the trick again, although he said packers were not convinced they would help enough.

Note Demanding $15,000 Was Sent To Dorothy Lamour, Official Says

BALTIMORE, May 1 (AP)—A disclosure that Dorothy Lamour was the object of a $15,000 extortion attempt came on the heels today of the recovery of $29,000 in jewelry and other valuables lost by the screen actress and her husband in a Baltimore theft last week.

An official, who asked not to be identified further, said Miss Lamour received the extortion note, postmarked in Baltimore Saturday, at the suburban home of her socialite husband, William Ross Howard, III, on Monday.

The note ,written in pencil on manila paper and enclosed in a white envelope, said:

"Put $15,000 in the third pew right side of St. Ignatius church (Park avenue and Saratoga street) at Sunday service."

The note made an error in addresses. The church at the specified address is St. Alphonsus. St. Ignatius church is ten blocks away.

The note was turned over to the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the official said. The agent in charge of the local FBI office declined to comment.

Miss Lamour came to Baltimore last week for "a well-earned rest" and the christening of her 3-months-old son, John Ridgely Howard, Sunday.

The visit was anything but restful.

Shortly after she and her husband arrived in Baltimore Thursday night, a suitcase containing the gems and valuables was stolen from a car parked near a downtown hotel.

The actress spent most of the night at the police station describing her loss.

On Monday, the official said, she received the extortion note and turned it over to police.

Last night, police informed her that an anonymous telephone tip had led to the recovery of some of the lost valuables. She went to the police station again to identify the jewelry.

When police found all the rest of the loot but a fur coat and the suitcase early this morning, she remained at the station to continue identification.

Police said three negroes were held in the theft but had not yet been charged.

United Mine Workers' Chief Is Blamed for "Desperate Situation"

STRIKE COST MINERS $100,000,000 IN APRIL

Lewis Summons UMW Policy Committee To Meet Tuesday

By HAROLD W. WARD

WASHINGTON, May 1 (AP)—Charles O'Neill, spokesman for the operators, asserted tonight the month-old soft coal strike is wrecking the country.

It is the costliest strike in the nation's history and has led it to "the brink of disaster greater than anything since Pearl Harbor," O'Neill said in a speech prepared for nationwide broadcast.

Blaming "this desperate situation" on John L. Lewis, chief of the United Mine Workers, O'Neill asserted the walkout had cost the workers $100,000,000 in wages in April.

O'Neill, representing the bituminous operators' negotiating committee, spoke as reports came of railroads trimming service to save coal. In addition, the Illinois Commerce Commission ordered nine public utility companies to curtail delivery of electricity to industrial users.

O'Neill asserted "the complete stoppage of essential public services is now in sight."

UMW Policy Group To Meet

Lewis, he said, had demanded agreement in principle upon a royalty tax on coal.

He termed the strike "the first in our history to establish the right to a 'dole.'"

The operators, he said, are ready to work out an agreement carrying higher pay rates.

Negotiations which resumed this week after a nineteen-day breakdown were in a snarl and Lewis unexpectedly summoned the 250-man policy committee of his union to meet here next Tuesday.

Whether this indicated some change in strategy by the mine union leader was not disclosed. He carefully refrained from public explanation of the move.

The Association of American Railroads reported that most of the carriers have reduced local freight runs from a daily to a thrice-weekly basis. Class 1 railroads, it was estimated, have on hand an average coal supply for twenty-six or twenty-seven days but some have much less. Five railroads, which the association did not name, reported today that they have only a ten-day supply.

Council Indorses O'Conor Tax Plan

BALTIMORE, May 1—(AP)—Gov. O'Conor's proposal that federal income taxes be made deductible in computing state income taxes, today received the indorsement of the Legislative council.

The council asked the attorney general to prepare a bill embodying the proposal, for submission to the next General Assembly.

The Maryland Franchise Motor Operators Association renewed a request to the council for a reduction in the license rate for inter-city buses, from one-eighteenth to one-thirty-sixth of a cent per passenger seat mile. Robert Archer, attorney, appeared on behalf of the association.

Albert W. Ward, state tax commission secretary, said a special subcommittee studying the question had found discrimination in taxes on inter-city buses, zone buses and freight trucks, adding that the former were paying more than their proportionate share. Ward said inter-city buses were being taxed at the rate of 6.8 per cent of gross receipts, zone buses operating in limited areas, 1.8 per sent, and freight trucks, less than one per cent.

Earlier the council received from Robert France, chairman of the commission on motor vehicle legislation, several proposals for changes in motor vehicle laws.

Randolph, Harris Warn Industry Might Have To Be Nationalized

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 1 —(AP)—Two congressmen told the United States Chamber of Commerce today that the country faces possible nationalization of industry unless existing labor-management and transportation problems can be solved.

Rep. Jennings Randolph (D-W. Va.), acting chairman of the House Labor committee, said at a round table discussion that if labor and management did not "stop this pulling and hauling, then we might as well recognize that we face nationalization of industry as a possible alternative."

Rep. Oren Harris (D-Ark.) predicted that American transportation might have to be nationalized if Congress could not work out a formula permitting privately-financed lines to make a profit in competition with government-aided port.

Conciliator Will Stay On

Reconversion Director John W. Snyder said "the strike is hurting pretty bad." Testifying before the Senate War Investigating committee on surplus property disposal, he said in response to senators' questions that the strike was one of the things which had disrupted an otherwise pleasing industrial prospect which existed last January.

The Solid Fuels Administration counted up the loss in bituminous coal resulting from the month-old strike of 400,000 miners at 54,966,844 tons. The daily loss, the administration estimated, is 2,187,596 tons.

The soift coal negotiations lasted only two hours today and were recessed until tomorrow morning. Special Mediator Edward F. McGrady said the operators and Lewis "still are debating."

McGrady's colleague, Paul W. Fuller, who had resigned from the conciliation service last night because he differed with Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach's handling of the case, was persuaded at the White House today to stay on.

Fuller said, in response to questions by reporters, that both the operators and miners had asked that he continue. The veteran conciliator bowed to the request of Presidential Assistant John R. Steelman, to remain until the negotiations are concluded.

Operators Take Case to Public

In carrying the operators' case to the public, O'Neill said, "the danger is great and the operators' committee feels impelled to call it to your attention before trains actually stop running, gas and electricity are cut off from homes, hospitals and schools.

"It is impossible to visualize the full danger that is directly in front of us. Mr. Lewis calmly awaits these events to happen and proudly boasts of their inevitability. Prolongation of this strike means a great calamity to our nation's economy.

"How did we get into this desperate situation?" O'Neill asked. "Mr. Lewis simply refused to negotiate on any questians invo'ved as to wages, hours or conditions of employment unless the operators surrendered their rights of ownership as a condition precedent to collective bargaining for a new agreement. x x x He continues to demand that the operators agree in principle upon his request for a royalty tax on coal, without specification or explanation.

"The operators charge that John L. Lewis, president of the union, deliberately provoked this strike to seize and demonstrate the power to levy a tax upon the coal production of America and to take over these taxes to the estimated extent of fifty to sixty millons of dollars per year; to spend this money in accord with his desires x x x."

O'Neill said that the operators, "in a desperate effort to prevent a shutdown of the mines," had offered to "explore the establishment of a reasonable fund to help in unusual hardship cases arising directly out of accidents in coal mines and to pay half the cost x x x."

Milk Conference Sessions Open

Fourteen plant managers and employes of approximately twelve dairy plants in Allegany and Garrett counties attended the opening session yesterday of a milk control conference in the Cumberland branch laboratory of the state department of health, located in the Public Safety building.

J. Byron Dowling, state sanitarian, and W. Arnold Gunther, state bacteriologist, conducted yesterday's session, which was devoted to a discussion of the fundamentals of bacteriology and various laboratory demonstrations, including the preparation of culture media.

Dowling said that after completion of the conference May 16, those attending the meetings will be better qualified to keep a check on milk supplies at their respective plants.

The state sanitarian will conduct the sessions today and tomorrow, which will include discussions of the city milk code and farm inpection for a check on sanitary conditions. Gunther will be in charge of the meetings May 6 and 7, demonstrating bacteria found in milk and methods of determining bacterial count of milk.

Robert Stout, a representative of the University of Maryland, College Park, will come to Cumberland May 8 to assist Dowling in giving a discussion on farm inspection. Gunther will give laboratory demonstrations May 9 on bacteria in milk, and on May 10 Stout and Dr. Beechwood, Richmond, Va., sanitarian for District No. 2 of the United States Public Health Service, will discuss plant sanitation and training.

Those attending the conference will make a collection and examination of milk specimens May 14, and a review and question period will close the conference May 16.

Police Are Asked To Enforce Clean Street Ordinance

A campaign for cleaner streets in Cumberland has been inaugurated by Oscar A. Eyerman, chief of police, who has announced that he has instructed all members of the Cumberland Police Department to strictly enforce the city's sidewalk ordinance.

The order, effective yesterdey, notified all officers that they must instruct tenants of store rooms here to cease sweeping litter, dirt and dust from the store entrance and sidewalk into the streets.

Police were further told to notify property holders that violators will be prosecuted for such offenses. Chief Eyerman quoted Chapter 14, Section 30 of the city code:

"It shall not be lawful for any person or persons to break or scatter ashes, glass, tacks, litter, sweepings or filth of any kind upon an alley, street, lane or sidewalk within the city, or to cause or permit the same under penalty of not less than $5 or more than $100 fine for each offense."

Police said janitors of some buildings have been in the habit of sweeping dirt from the entrances and sidewalks into the street, and added that such action is due to the carelessness of the workers and not upon orders of the store operators.

The Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, at its last meeting, discussed the subject of cleaner streets and asked the Civic Improvement committee to study the question and make a report for action.

Stricter enforcement of the sidewalk ordinance and flushing the streets with fire hose were among the remedies discussed at the meeting.

It's Important to You—

THIS COAL STRIKE!

SOME 400,000 coal miners have been on strike for a month. As a result, hundreds of thousands of workers in other industries are being forced into idleness; and the nation faces its most serious crisis since the end of the war. Yet no progress has been made toward a settlement.

What you think and do about the coal strike is important. It is important to you and your family and to every one of us in this country.

Coal is the most basic of all industries. Without it steel cannot be manufactured . . .

Without steel, automobiles, washing machines, refrigerators, homes, vacuum cleaners and many other essential things people have wanted for so long cannot be made . . .

Already, steel and automobile companies are closing down . . .

Railroad service is being curtailed . . .

Electric light and gas plants are reducing their output . . .

If coal mining is longer delayed the coal famine will affect your corner grocer.

Such material effects as these of a prolonged coal strike you can readily see.

But there is more at stake in the coal strike than the continuing supply of these things. There is a challenge to our very way of life.

The officials of the miners' union have refused to negotiate. They have refused to bargain collectively with the mine operators. They have based their refusal on a demand that the operators must first agree in principle to an excise tax to be levied on every ton of coal mined.

This tax, a royalty to be exacted from your pocket, would give the union — a private organization—the right to tax the American people and do what it pleases with the money.

The fund established by this royalty tax would go into the union's treasury, as a so-called "health and welfare fund." It would be administered entirely by the union.

The union officials also have refused to negotiate and to bargain collectively unless the mine operators agree in principle that all mine supervisors, engineers, and foremen be compelled to join the rank-and-file union organization. This would make the union's control over the coal mines total and absolute.

The union officials also have refused to negotiate and to bargain collectively unless the mine operators agree to give to a union safety committee the right to close the mines at will.

The implications of these general demands are far reaching. They would affect all business, large and small, in the nation.

If these principles were accepted it would mean that management would cease to function without the consent and approval of a union overlord.

It would wreck the American competitive enterprise system.

What you think about these demands is important. Obviously the answer must eventually be supplied through constructive legislation. Your action could help speed this answer.

commission that it would have to curtail service immediately on the Love Point ferry system to Maryland's Eastern shore and the Pope Creek branch railroad.

Conciliator Will Stay On

Reconversion Director John W. Snyder said "the strike is hurting pretty bad." Testifying before the Senate War Investigating committee on surplus property disposal, he said in response to senators' questions that the strike was one of the things which had disrupted an otherwise pleasing industrial prospect which existed last January.

The Solid Fuels Administration counted up the loss in bituminous coal resulting from the month-old strike of 400,000 miners at 54,966,844 tons. The daily loss, the administration estimated, is 2,187,596 tons.

The solft coal negotiations lasted only two hours today and were recessed until tomorrow morning. Special Mediator Edward F. McGrady said the operators and Lewis "still are debating."

McGrady's colleague, Paul W. Fuller, who had resigned from the conciliation service last night because he differed with Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach's handling of the case, was persuaded at the White House today to stay on.

Fuller said, in response to questions by reporters, that both the operators and miners had asked that he continue. The veteran conciliator bowed to the request of Presidential Assistant John R. Steelman, to remain until the negotiations are concluded.

Operators Take Case to Public

In carrying the operators' case to the public, O'Neill said, "the danger is great and the operators' committee feels impelled to call it to your attention before trains actually stop running, gas and electricity are cut off from homes, hospitals and schools.

"It is impossible to visualize the full danger that is directly in front of us. Mr. Lewis calmly awaits these events to happen and proudly boasts of their inevitability. Prolongation of this strike means a great calamity to our nation's economy.

"How did we get into this desperate situation?" O'Neill asked. "Mr. Lewis simply refused to negotiate on any questians invc'ved as to wages, hours or conditions of employment unless the operators surrendered their rights of ownership as a condition precedent to collective bargaining for a new agreement. x x x He continues to demand that the operators agree in principle upon his request for a royalty tax on coal, without specification or explanation.

"The operators charge that John L. Lewis, president of the union, deliberately provoked this strike to seize and demonstrate the power to levy a tax upon the coal production of America and to take over these taxes to the estimated extent of fifty to sixty millons of dollars per year; to spend this money in accord with his desires x x x."

O'Neill said that the operators, "in a desperate effort to prevent a shutdown of the mines," had offered to "explore the establishment of a reasonable fund to help in unusual hardship cases arising directly out of accidents in coal mines and to pay half the cost x x x."

Milk Conference Sessions Open

Fourteen plant managers and employes of approximately twelve dairy plants in Allegany and Garrett counties attended the opening session yesterday of a milk control conference in the Cumberland branch laboratory of the state department of health, located in the Public Safety building.

J. Byron Dowling, state sanitarian, and W. Arnold Gunther, state bacteriologist, conducted yesterday's session, which was devoted to a discussion of the fundamentals of bacteriology and various laboratory demonstrations, including the preparation of culture media.

The state sanitarian will conduct the sessions today and tomorrow, which will include discussions of the city milk code and farm inpection for a check on sanitary conditions. Gunther will be in charge of the meetings May 6 and 7, demonstrating bacteria found in milk and methods of determining bacterial count of milk.

Robert Stout, a representative of the University of Maryland, College Park, will come to Cumberland May 8 to assist Dowling in giving a discussion on farm inspection. Gunther will give laboratory demonstrations May 9 on bacteria in milk, and on May 10 Stout and Dr. Beechwood, Richmond, Va., sanitarian for District No. 2 of the United States Public Health Service, will discuss plant sanitation and training.

Those attending the conference will make a collection and examination of milk specimens May 14, and a review and question period will close the conference May 16.

Beatrice Fairfax Discusses Problem Of Unwed Mother

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I was going around with a boy who went overseas.

About six months ago, he came home with his discharge. I am in love with him and am going to have his baby, but we aren't married.

He seems to like me as much as I like him, but he has never asked me to marry him. What shall I do? He hasn't yet broken a date with me. C. D. V.

You do not say whether or not you have told this young man that you are going to have his baby. If you have not, I think you should. If he does return your feeling for him, as you seem to think he does, he will likely wish to marry you at once and make things as right for you as is possible under the circumstances.

But if, on the other hand, he is not an honorable person, and does not show any desire to assume the responsibility that is rightfully his, I am afraid that you will have to make your own plans.

Do you have an affectionate, understanding family who would stand by you and see you through this? Or would you feel that you would need the advice and guidance of some organization like the Florence Crittenton homes, where you could stay until your baby was born? If the latter, I would suggest that you get in touch with the one nearest you, and if you will write me again, giving me your name and address, I will be glad to give you this information. But I hope you have been able to reach a happier solution of your problem.

Boy Friend Puzzles Her

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Do you think a fellow can be interested in a girl if he goes with her for four and a half months and has not tried to kiss her, or do you think she's wasting her time? He's very good in all ways, takes me out four times a week, buys me little presents, telephones me on the nights he doesn't see me.

But in spite of all this, he has never kissed me, which I don't understand. I do know, however, that he has not gone out with many women and may be a bit bashful. He has also hinted about marriage. What should a girl do when she has a man like this? He's not a child, either, being 34 and me 29.

How many presents does a girl give a fellow for the year, and on what occasions? M. W.

For heaven's sake, M. W., what's the matter with you anyhow? Do I think you're wasting your time if you accept the attentions of a man who's obviously a gentleman and treats you like a lady? Well, I'd say that all depends on what you're looking for. And nobody but you knows that.

You also ask what a girl should do when she has a man like that. Most girls would get down on their knees and say a prayer of thanks for such a rare prize. But you don't seem to know a lucky break when you see one.

It sounds much more to me as though he were the one who's wasting his time, rather than the other way around. You'd better wake up before he realizes it.

As for the presents, you don't give presents by the rule of so many a year. A Christmas and a birthday present, I should think, would cover the situation at its present stage.

Beatrice Fairfax Discusses Problem Of Unwed Mother

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I was going around with a boy who went overseas.

About six months ago, he came home with his discharge. I am in love with him and am going to have his baby, but we aren't married.

He seems to like me as much as I like him, but he has never asked me to marry him. What shall I do? He hasn't yet broken a date with me. C. D. V.

You do not say whether or not you have told this young man that you are going to have his baby. If you have not, I think you should. If he does return your feeling for him, as you seem to think he does, he will likely wish to marry you at once and make things as right for you as is possible under the circumstances.

But if, on the other hand, he is not an honorable person, and does not show any desire to assume the responsibility that is rightfully his, I am afraid that you will have to make your own plans.

Do you have an affectionate, understanding family who would stand by you and see you through this? Or would you feel that you would need the advice and guidance of some organization like the Florence Crittenton homes, where you could stay until your baby was born? If the latter, I would suggest that you get in touch with the one nearest you, and if you will write me again, giving me your name and address, I will be glad to give you this information. But I hope you have been able to reach a happier solution of your problem.

Boy Friend Puzzles Her

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Do you think a fellow can be interested in a girl if he goes with her for four and a half months and has not tried to kiss her, or do you think she's wasting her time? He's very good in all ways, takes me out four times a week, buys me little presents, telephones me on the nights he doesn't see me.

But in spite of all this, he has never kissed me, which I don't understand. I do know, however, that he has not gone out with many women and may be a bit bashful. He has also hinted about marriage. What should a girl do when she has a man like this? He's not a child, either, being 34 and me 29.

How many presents does a girl give a fellow for the year, and on what occasions? M. W.

For heaven's sake, M. W., what's the matter with you anyhow? Do I think you're wasting your time if you accept the attentions of a man who's obviously a gentleman and treats you like a lady? Well, I'd say that all depends on what you're looking for. And nobody but you knows that.

You also ask what a girl should do when she has a man like that. Most girls would get down on their knees and say a prayer of thanks for such a rare prize. But you don't seem to know a lucky break when you see one.

It sounds much more to me as though he were the one who's wasting his time, rather than the other way around. You'd better wake up before he realizes it.

As for the presents, you don't give presents by the rule of so many a year. A Christmas and a birthday present, I should think, would cover the situation at its present stage.

Spot Daylight Time Is a Big Nuisance

AN EFFORT is to be made to have the Cumberland city council adopt the daylight saving time schedule for the city, thus adding to the annual costly confusion that is being caused here and there throughout the country by reason of the return of this unmitigated nuisance in spots.

This newspaper hopes the city fathers will not engage in this nuisance maker and that the community will continue using Eastern Standard time for its clocks in common with practically all the other communities throughout the section and state. There are a few exceptions in Maryland, these being the city of Hagerstown, the town of Elkton and two small communities in Garrett county, in which, reports say, the time confusion is worse than confounded. Neither Baltimore city nor the District of Columbia has daylight time.

Daylight saving is a fine thing; but if the country is to have it, it should be universal and not in spots. To have it that way, a national law would be necessary. But we had a national law when the country was on daylight time during the war years and it worked well, although instead of having it universal without change through the year, it might have been better had it been adjusted each spring and summer. It still would have been in general use with no confusion or bother.

With transportation systems all operating on standard times, the use of the daylight time in spots merely presents unnecessary and foolish time problems not only in those communities affected but among all those who have anything to do with them.

If any business concern, factory or other establishment wants to adopt daylight saving time, it can do so without adding to the annoyance and inconvenience of others by merely adopting a daylight saving time schedule individually without monkeying with the clocks. Thus, instead of having everybody report for work at 8 and quit at 4, the workers could report at 7 and quit at 3. Simple.

Congress ought to adopt a daylight time saving schedule for national use. The only reason it hasn't done so, aside from wartime, is that members fear the reaction of the farmer vote. But farmers are not so narrowminded that they cannot operate on their own schedules without messing up the clocks; and they are even adopting resolutions opposing the spot system as being too inconvient for them.

Railroads Need Radio System

THE FATAL CRASH of two express trains near Chicago, with appalling loss of life, prompts speculation as to what could have prevented the tragedy. Both trains were westbound on the same track. Automatic signals went into operation when the first train made an unscheduled stop to investigate some suspected trouble. But with screeching brakes the second train rammed the standing train at terrific speed.

If there had been radio communication between the two trains, the crash never would have happened. The engineer of the first train would have informed the engineer of the second that he intended to stop. Radio communication between trains, and between trains and control stations, is no dream. It already has been installed in some cases. No time should be lost in perfecting it and making its installation universal.

Republican County Vote Is Important This Year

WHAT Theodore R. McKeldin told the diners at the anniversary dinner of the Young Men's Republican Club of Cumberland about the importance in this year's election of the vote in the counties should be taken to heart by all Republicans of this county, as well as the other Republican counties of the state.

McKeldin rightly declared that the vote from a single Republican stronghold in the state, such as this county, could mean the difference between victory and defeat in the forthcoming election. The Republican candidate for governor has historical basis for his declaration, as has been pointed out at different times in these columns.

In the 1942 campaign, when McKeldin was the Republican gubernatorial nominee opposing Governor O'Conor, McKeldin rolled up astonishing strength in Baltimore city, which was something unusual in that normally Democratic stronghold, and achieved a total state vote of 179,204, also something unusual, against the 198,488 polled by the governor. If the Republicans in the counties had been just a little more active and had they done relatively as much as was accomplished in Baltimore city, McKeldin could have been elected governor—and, in the light of events, it is a great pity that he wasn't.

The trouble in the counties then was apathy and hopelessness resulting from a long period of New Deal domination of the country with its influence upon the states through the use of governmental plums and moneys. That should not be suffered now for obvious reasons. For one thing, the New Deal sprinkling of checks and patronage will not be as huge this year as then. For another, maladministration, buck-passing, bureaucratic blundering, reconversion failures and wishy-washy policies in the Washington management have sickened the people generally with it all.

There is real, substantial hope for the Republicans this year because of the different situation and the multitude of straws in the political winds indicating a wholesale desire among the citizenry for a change. Many Democrats, who would like to take part in Republican primary efforts but who cannot do so because of their party registrations, will vote for Republicans in the sacred secrecy of the polling booths this fall.

But, as has been noted in this department, Republicans should take nothing for granted in this encouraging situation. They should not sit back and depend too much upon Baltimore city. The Democratic machinery, state and national, is still strong and working, and it still has its hands on moneys and patronage. Republicans should develop their organized strength, be more active in both primary and general campaigns and see to it that the full voting power of the party is achieved. And this, as McKeldin said, applies with particular force to the Republican county strongholds.

Pipe Lines and American Humor

EXAGGERATION is a basic element of the American sense of humor and that sense, it is good to note, continues unscathed throughout the nation albeit it has suffered some abatement at times because of economic and other troubles.

It crops up even in the serious discussion of serious things. For a chuckle, or two, take the discussion of the problem as to what to do with the "Big Inch" and the "Little Inch" pipe lnies laid across the United States to supply sufficient quantities of oil and gasoline for prosecution of the war in Europe.

The pipe lines are providing headaches for the War Assets Administration. It wants to dispose of the lines, which are still classified as surplus government property. Not much interest has been manifested in taking them over, since they are not now needed, and a sale is not expected this year. In fact, there is belief that it may be years before the arteries can be used once more.

There isn't much humor in that, to be sure, but there is in some observations that have accompanied it in the nature of pipe dreams. These include a plan to run grapefruit juice through from Texas to New York; a scheme to transport mineral waters with curative powers; a proposal to use the lines as pneumatic chutes, whisking mail across the land; a project to suck in Jersey sea water and channel it through the "Big Inch" to a series of salt water pools in the Middle West, with the "Little Big Inch" utilized to carry sea air for giving the proper seaside atmosphere; and another to start carbonated water through the pipes in Texas, add Bourbon in Kentucky, route the concoction through the "ice mines" of Pennsylvania and so on to the consumer.

But, here is the occasion for a real chuckle: a plan to run Texas jackrabbits through on the hoof to eastern consumption centers, on the theory that "anything becomes a delicacy if it is moved far enough" with the added notation that if a specified number of rabbits are introduced into the southwestern end of the pipes, a much larger number would emerge at the eastern terminal, thus providing additional offsets for the meat shortage.

It takes the American mind, with its exaggerated sense of humor, to cook up schemes like that; and before these go the rounds there will be other startling proposals for the use of the lines.

Signs Are Seen Of Anti-Inflation Move by Workers

By MARK SULLIVAN

Mr. Chester Bowles, contending for price control the way he wants it, and opposing the version passed by Congress, and in both attitudes seeming to assume that he stands for the people while Congress does not, said:

"I feel that the people will realize that we cannot take the lid off for half the economy and hold it down for the rest..."

That seems odd, coming from Mr. Bowles, for this is much what the administration tried to do—raise the lid of that half of the economy which is wages, but hold it down on that part which is prices. As Mr. Bowles continued, it turned out that he was opposing a congressional amendment which, as he interpreted it, would keep price control over some lines of business, such as residentialy rents, and take it off some other lines. Mr. Bowles was talking about quarters of the economy, rather than halfs.

Denial of a Truth

But what Mr. Bowles said is a universal truth. And what the administration has tried to do—raise wages but keep prices down—is a denial of that truth. In steel, automobiles, packing and other industries, wages were raised—in one case, steel, the wage raise was prescribed by President Truman personally. In due course, price increases followed, and the Office of Price Administration, when announcing them, said that the price increase was due to the wage raise. Failure of the attempted dual policy caused what President Truman admitted to be a "bulge" in the line of defense against inflation. (The forthright Mr. Bernard Baruch called it "a break and a serious one".)

In addition to the direct and tangible setback to the fight against inflation caused by the dual policy and the failure of it, there has been a psychological harm. The battle morale of the people, their willingness to resist inflation and endure deprivation in order to help, their trust that the administration had the will and the wisdom to make the fight, has been impaired. One of several manifestations of the psychological harm is the demand by farm leaders in Congress for increases in the prices of crops, meaning food. When the administration resisted this, the reply of Senator Russell of Georgia was:

Inflation Cry Raised

"They say it is not inflationary to raise the price of steel $5 a ton in order to allow a wage increase of eighteen and a half cents an hour. But the minute anyone mentions raising farm prices...for the producer of agricultural commodities, they raise the hue and cry of inflation."

That spirit among farmers and their leaders is a consequence of seeing the administration set out, willingly, to favor one group, labor, by wage raises; and then, when obliged to, unwillingly make a confession to another group, business, by granting the price increases which the wage raises necessitated. In effect the farm leaders are saying: "If raises for one, then raises for all—we want ours."

That spirit is more an expression of indignation than of purpose. No group in Congress is consciously willing to break the line against inflation more than it has already been broken as a consequence of the administration's attempt to treat wages one way and prices another. Some policies entertained by some in Congress might be as harmful as the administration's mistaken wage-price policy. But the wish of Congress as a whole to prevent inflation is as great as that of Mr. Bowles and the rest of the administration.

Modification Likely

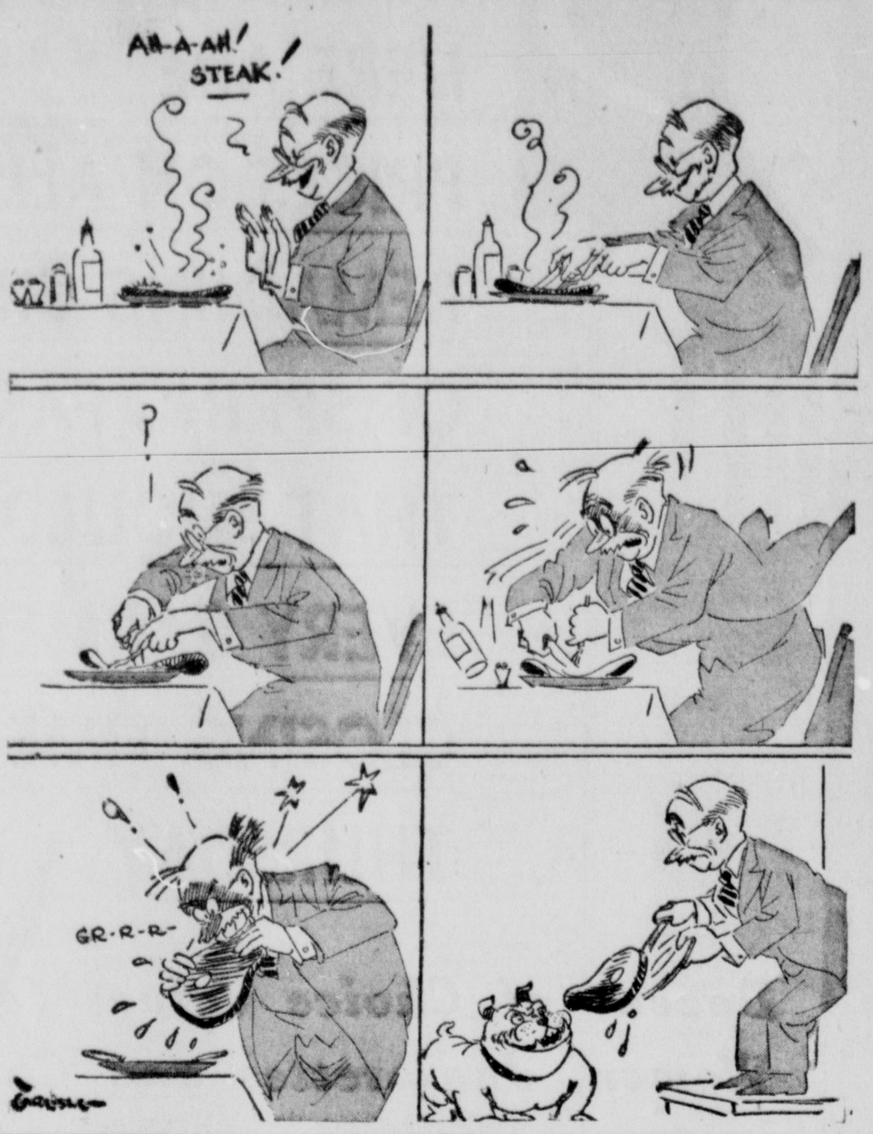
What will happen is that the amendments to OPA written in the House and passed by conspicuously large majorities, will be modified in the Senate. The modification will be in the interest of making the fight against inflation more effective.

But the mechanism that works toward inflation—raises in wages, followed by increases in prices, and these in turn followed by more demands for wage raises—is still in motion. There are signs that an end may come, not through action by the administration, nor any other political action, but from within the world of workers. There are tangible signs that the rank and file have come to realize the futility of strikes which stall production, and wage-raises that are soon made ineffective by increased prices and higher cost of living. Persons familiar with labor sentiment put much faith in this.

MAY SUCCEED BOSS

SHOULD Janet Pratt be chosen to succeed the late Rep. William O. Burgin (D., N.C.) in the special election to be held May 25, she will have little to learn on congressional procedure. She was secretary to Burgin and other members of the House for twenty-five years. If successful, she will be the first woman member of Congress from North Carolina.

SOMETHING THE BLACK MARKET DRAGGED IN



THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Nation Can Fulfil Its Food Promises Only by Skimping, Drew Pearson Says

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, May 1.—Here are two unpleasant but inescapable facts regarding the food shortage. They must be kept in mind if the Anglo-American nations are to alleviate world-wide starvation.

1. Only by careful skimping on the part of housewives, hotels and restaurants, can the United States fulfil its food promises. There just isn't enough grain and oil to go round—unless we pull in our belts.

2. United States officials aren't saying much, but they weren't happy over English and Canadian co-operation—or lack of co-operation—in allocating their grain surplus to Europe.

British slowness, however, is considered no excuse for American failure to meet commitments; so United States officials will continue their all-out efforts. However, here is what we are up against: Wheat on hand in this country as of January 1 totalled 689,000,000 bushels. Of this, the January-June use of wheat will be 70,000,000 bushels for feed; 23,000,000 for seed, 150,000,000 bushels for carryover; leaving almost 450,000,000 bushels for human consumption and export.

Agriculture Secretary Clinton Anderson's recent flour curtailment order will probably reduce human consumption in this country to about 260,000,000 bushels, leaving less than 200,000,000 bushels for export.

Against that, we have a commitment of 225,000,000 bushels to be shipped before the end of June. In other words, unless there is great individual saving there just won't be enough wheat to go round.

Fat Famine

The same thing is also true of fats and oils. We just won't have them on hand for export unless every housewife is more frugal than ever. Here is the lineup: On April 1, stocks of butter totalled only 14,964,000 pounds against 29,833,000 last year.

Cottonseed oil totalled 1,492,900 pounds against 1,756,400 last year.

Lard totalled 81,435,000 pounds against 49,728,000 pounds last year and 403,151,000 two years ago.

Actually the fat picture is worse than most people realize and the Russians are faced with such a serious shortage that they have gone to the Argentine and are bidding against us for linseed oil. Ordinarily we buy the Argentine linseed crop for paint. The Russians will use it for human consumption, however, and are willing to bid high.

British Wheat Reserve

United States agricultural officials don't say much about it, but they have been griped at the British. Secretary Anderson held up his flour-milling cut for about three weeks waiting for the British to agree to ship some of their 1,000,000 ton wheat surplus to the famine stricken continent. Normally 1,000,000 tons is not a large surplus for the British but United States officials argued that in the present emergency this could be sent to Europe, with a saving of valuable time and shipping, while we got more wheat to the Atlantic seaboard.

Then with the new summer wheat crop coming in, we would replenish British reserves.

Finally London came through with an offer of only 200,000 tons, providing the United States and Canada repaced it without too much delay.

Secretary Anderson also was disappointed when the Canadians matched our twenty-five per cent cut with a promise of only 2,500,000 bushels of wheat plus 5,000,000 bushels of oats.

Note — Canada has about one-eleventh the population of the USA and about one-third our wheat crop, though she has been exporting heavily to England.

Politics in the Desert

The wide-open spaces of New Mexico are about to see the most turbulent political fight in years—with three colorful figures battling for the United States Senate.

Gov. Jack Dempsey (no relation to the boxer) who jumped from Brooklyn subway brakeman to New Mexican politician, has finally decided to enter the race. He will oppose Sen. Dennis Chavez in the Democratic primaries.

Whoever wins will then have to cross swords with grandstanding Patrick J. Hurley, ex-secretary of war, ex-ambassador to China, and the man who breathed fire down the back of the State department regarding allegedly "pink" diplomats. In the end, the Senate made Hurley look a trifle red in the face himself.

A former Oklahoma lawyer, Hurley has been itching to get back into politics, and about two years ago took up residence in New Mexico with that in view. That state long has been considered a happy hunting ground for disappointed politicians who lost out back east.

Jack Dempsey, though of Brooklyn origin, has been successfully gyrating through New Mexican politics for two decades. He was lone Congressman from New Mexico, later under secretary of the interior, then governor. During this time he built up his own machine; and he will need it to buck Sen. Chavez who, as author of the Fair Employment Practices act, has endeared himself to Spanish residents of New Mexico.

Note—Chavez also has hit the all-time high for putting relatives on the government payroll.

Famine Notes

One reason for the poor wheat crop in Europe is the lack of horses. Great numbers of horses were eaten during the war; others were drafted by the military and shot in battle . . . United States wheat failed to move to the Atlantic seaboard in usual amounts this spring partly because of a spring thaw which made country roads impassable . . . Another delay factor—in addition to shortage of boxcars—was income taxes. Farmers wanted to wait until this year to harvest their grain, when income-tax brackets would be lower . . . At our present rate of export, England will soon have a larger wheat reserve than the USA . . . United States meat production last year topped 20,000,000 pounds but may fall off this year. We have promised Europe 1,600,000,000 pounds of meat for 1946 . . . Chief reason for the world wide wheat shortage is the Argentine-Australian drought. Also North Africa, which normally exports to Italy and France, this year had to import wheat.

Capital Chaff

Rep. Hugh Delacy, of Washington, has offered West Point appointments to two ex-GI's who came out on top in the West Point entrance exams, but they have turned down a free army education. Say they prefer to learn about and live under civilian democracy . . . When former Treasury Secretary Henry Morgenthau traveled in Europe during the war, secret service insisted that he use another name in order that he not be a taget for Nazi pilots. Morganthau was known as Henry Murphy . . . Despite the serious shortage of fats and oils here, Secretary of Agriculture Anderson has been unable to get any help to bring the 25,000 or 30,000 tons of copra which have been available for the gathering in the Philippines for over a year.

Treaty by Byrnes Is Viewed as a Master Stroke

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, May 1—Why should the United States suddenly spring on the world a proposal for a treaty of twenty-five years duration that binds Russia, America, Britain and France to a guarantee against possible aggression by Germany? One might have supposed that the United Nations would see to it that there would be no aggression by Germany or any other nation. Does this mean then that there is any lack of faith in the United Nations organization?

These questions were being asked here today as a consequence of the rather sensational move in Paris by Secretary Byrnes. Indeed, the treaty was a complete surprise to official Washington. Even the joint chiefs of staff and the military folks generally didn't have any word about it in advance. They naturally favor the plan and probably would have approved it but the important fact is that the whole thing has been kept a secret, though work has progressed on it in the department of State for several months.

Nor is the idea itself the product of the administration's thinking alone. Senator Vandenberg proposed the same thing in a speech a year or so ago, which is an indication that the measure will have strong support from both major parties if it comes before the Senate.

Prompted by Russian Attitude

The basic reason for the proposition has to do with the way matters have shaped up in the world since V-J day. Russia has been operating on a one-sided basis throughout Eastern Europe. In the Russian zone of occupation in Germany, the Russians are plainly violating the Potsdam agreement. They are communizing Eastern Germany. The whole Russian policy in demanding friendly states on their borders and the oft-repeated cry of "security" are based on the hypothesis that Germany is planning new aggression.

To checkmate that theory and to reveal to all the world that there is no need for Russian fears or for her expansion under the guise of "security," the Byrnes-Vandenberg treaty now is offered. It is apparent that Molotov was caught by surprise. He doesn't know quite what to make of it.

But here is a treaty made to order for Russia. Once she accepts it, there can be no justification for arguing on every occasion that what is being done by the Russian armies of occupation is designed to exterminate fascism.

Same as under Charter

The significance of the American maneuver cannot be over-estimated. The United States would pledge itself to participation in military measures as against possible German aggression. Such a treaty, if ratified, would naturally increase the need for military preparation to fulfill such obligation but, on the other hand, the commitment is not any larger than would be the case anyway under the United Nations charter, which the president and secretary of state recently stated that this country was determined to defend.

As to whether the move indicates any less faith in the United Nations organization and its capacity to keep the peace, the answer is that the United States hopes to rely on both instruments—the new treaty and the UN charter. If by any device of procedural delay or the wilful obstruction of any major power, there is an impediment in the UN to the prompt operation of the charter in handling German aggression, the new treaty would nevertheless come into instant effect by the action of only four powers.

Task Simplified

Britain and France would presumably be concerned at once and would want to see aggression nipped in the bud. The United States would have as its major interest the prevention of any world-wide conflagration. As for Russia, it might or might not agree that what the Germans were doing was aggression. This would depend on whether the Russians had control through their Communistic party of what was being done in the name of the German government. But certainly if the German government were hostile to Russia, the British, French and American support for the Russian demand for protection against aggression would simplify the task of maintaining peace in Central Europe.

The treaty proposal is a master stroke. Strangely enough, it parallels the proposal made by President Wilson in 1919 whereby Britain, France and the United States were to guarantee France against German aggression. The treaty failed of action because the League of Nations covenant was rejected. Maybe this time, since the charter has been adopted by the U. S. Senate, the guarantee will be likewise approved.

The Ground Of One's Joy

By GEORGE MATTHE WADAMS

Stevenson says that "the ground of a man's joy is often hard to hit. It may hinge at times upon a mere accessory, like a lantern." I have a small island Nova Scotia summer camp. I hardlye ver mention it but what I am asked: "Do you fish?" And I have to inform my questioner that I rarely do, that I find greater joy in sitting on a log, or on the back steps of my log dining cabin, feeding peanuts to the red squirrels that seek my benevolence!

The late Franklin D. Roosevelt found joy in his stamp collection. John Muir found his among the mountains and glaciers. Many a rich man has found his in the collecting, and giving away of priceless works of are. Henry Ford found his in the creating of early Americana, reproducing the spirit of the days of the pioneers, and of those who built and advanced America.

My friend, Wilfred Funk, gets his joy out of the study and uses of words, as well as in their application to a useful end. And I met a man in Florida who gets his joy out of capturing and exhibiting snakes! And many a woman gets her joy from the hunting and acquiring of antiques. And so it goes It matters little just what the pursuit may be, so long as the joy results.

The ground of one's joy may even be no more than that which deals with the imagination — the boy dreaming of being the King, and the King dreaming of being the boy with his can of worms and fishing tackle. Or the farmer behind his plough, sailing the seven seas in his sturdy sailing craft. Stevenson was right—"a many's joy is often hard to hit."

An artist friend of mine once took me to a small cabin on his estate, where he showed me hundreds of bottles of every description, many of them most rare, and all of them interesting. I had never dreamed that there were so many kinds of bottles in the entire world. And yet, this friend gained supreme joy from his hunt and from his great collection.

Every one of our lives should be paved with as much innocent gaiety as possible. We need a stream of joyous pursuits to keep us alert and creative.

It Says Here

BY BOB HOPE

You certainly hear a lot of singing commercials on the air these days. To be a successful modern songwriter, you have to study Bach, Beethoven and a sales chart. One composer I know is working on several sure-fire hits now: "I will love you in December as I did before you started using Gergen molasses and cashew cream for your rough, dry skin"....And, "Two hearts that beat in Rinkersall watch ... curved-to-fit-your-elbow ... time."

Nowadays, when a sponsor wants to sell a product, he doesn't call an advertising agency....He contacts Toscanini. Nelson Eddy was lined up to do a singing commercial for a wine company, but it didn't work out. The wine kept soaking up in his shortnin' bread!....And one sedative firm has a commercial that sounds like a train. It's a sort of "Atchinson, Topeka, and the Santa Burp!"

But sponsors are looking for something that will attract the listeners' attention even more than the musical break. My brother has worked up something new called the "nudging commercial." When you're listening to a program and it's time for the plug, the announcer just hums quietly for twenty seconds to distract you while a fellow sneaks in your window, nudges you in the ribs with a forty-five and says, "Okay, bub, get goin' down to the corner store for a cake of Yerkle's soap, or else!"....Any interested sales manager can write to my brother about this idea. The warden will see that he gets the letters.

Spot Daylight Time Is a Big Nuisance

AN EFFORT is to be made to have the Cumberland city council adopt the daylight saving time schedule for the city, thus adding to the annual costly confusion that is being caused here and there throughout the country by reason of the return of this unmitigated nuisance in spots.

This newspaper hopes the city fathers will not engage in this nuisance maker and that the community will continue using Eastern Standard time for its clocks in common with practically all the other communities throughout the section and state. There are a few exceptions in Maryland, these being the city of Hagerstown, the town of Elkton and two small communities in Garrett county, in which, reports say, the time confusion is worse than confounded. Neither Baltimore city nor the District of Columbia has daylight time.

Daylight saving is a fine thing; but if the country is to have it, it should be universal and not in spots. To have it that way, a national law would be necessary. But we had a national law when the country was on daylight time during the war years and it worked well, although instead of having it universal without change through the year, it might have been better had it been adjusted each spring and summer. It still would have been in general use with no confusion or bother.

With transportation systems all operating on standard times, the use of the daylight time in spots merely presents unnecessary and foolish time problems not only in those communities affected but among all those who have anything to do with them.

If any business concern, factory or other establishment wants to adopt daylight saving time, it can do so without adding to the annoyance and inconvenience of others by merely adopting a daylight saving time schedule individually without monkeying with the clocks. Thus, instead of having everybody report for work at 8 and quit at 4, the workers could report at 7 and quit at 3. Simple.

Congress ought to adopt a daylight time saving schedule for national use. The only reason it hasn't done so, aside from wartime, is that members fear the reaction of the farmer vote. But farmers are not so narrowminded that they cannot operate on their own schedules without messing up the clocks; and they are even adopting resolutions opposing the spot system as being too inconvient for them.

Railroads Need Radio System

THE FATAL CRASH of two express trains near Chicago, with appalling loss of life, prompts speculation as to what could have prevented the tragedy. Both trains were westbound on the same track. Automatic signals went into operation when the first train made an unscheduled stop to investigate some suspected trouble. But with screeching brakes the second train rammed the standing train at terrific speed.

If there had been radio communication between the two trains, the crash never would have happened. The engineer of the first train would have informed the engineer of the second that he intended to stop. Radio communication between trains, and between trains and control stations, is no dream. It already has been installed in some cases. No time should be lost in perfecting it and making its installation universal.

Republican County Vote Is Important This Year

WHAT Theodore R. McKeldin told the diners at the anniversary dinner of the Young Men's Republican Club of Cumberland about the importance in this year's election of the vote in the counties should be taken to heart by all Republicans of this county, as well as the other Republican counties of the state.

McKeldin rightly declared that the vote from a single Republican stronghold in the state, such as this county, could mean the difference between victory and defeat in the forthcoming election. The Republican candidate for governor has historical basis for his declaration, as has been pointed out at different times in these columns.

In the 1942 campaign, when McKeldin was the Republican gubernatorial nominee opposing Governor O'Conor, McKeldin rolled up astonishing strength in Baltimore city, which was something unusual in that normally Democratic stronghold, and achieved a total state vote of 179,204, also something unusual, against the 198,488 polled by the governor. If the Republicans in the counties had been just a little more active and had they done relatively as much as was accomplished in Baltimore city, McKeldin could have been elected governor—and, in the light of events, it is a great pity that he wasn't.

The trouble in the counties then was apathy and hopelessness resulting from a long period of New Deal domination of the country with its influence upon the states through the use of governmental plums and moneys. That should not be suffered now for obvious reasons. For one thing, the New Deal sprinkling of checks and patronage will not be as huge this year as then. For another, maladministration, buck-passing, bureaucratic blundering, reconversion failures and wishy-washy policies in the Washington management have sickened the people generally with it all.

There is real, substantial hope for the Republicans this year because of the different situation and the multitude of straws in the political winds indicating a wholesale desire among the citizenry for a change. Many Democrats, who would like to take part in Republican primary efforts but who cannot do so because of their party registrations, will vote for Republicans in the sacred secrecy of the polling booths this fall.

But, as has been noted in this department, Republicans should take nothing for granted in this encouraging situation. They should not sit back and depend too much upon Baltimore city. The Democratic machinery, state and national, is still strong and working, and it still has its hands on moneys and patronage. Republicans should develop their organized strength, be more active in both primary and general campaigns and see to it that the full voting power of the party is achieved. And this, as McKeldin said, applies with particular force to the Republican county strongholds.

Pipe Lines and American Humor

EXAGGERATION is a basic element of the American sense of humor and that sense, it is good to note, continues unscathed throughout the nation albeit it has suffered some abatement at times because of economic and other troubles.

It crops up even in the serious discussion of serious things. For a chuckle, or two, take the discussion of the problem as to what to do with the "Big Inch" and the "Little Inch" pipe lines laid across the United States to supply sufficient quantities of oil and gasoline for prosecution of the war in Europe.

The pipe lines are providing headaches for the War Assets Administration. It wants to dispose of the lines, which are still classified as surplus government property. Not much interest has been manifested in taking them over, since they are not now needed, and a sale is not expected this year. In fact, there is belief that it may be years before the arteries can be used once more.

There isn't much humor in that, to be sure, but there is in some observations that have accompanied it in the nature of pipe dreams. These include a plan to run grapefruit juice through from Texas to New York; a scheme to transport mineral waters with curative powers; a proposal to use the lines as pneumatic chutes, whisking mail across the land; a project to suck in Jersey sea water and channel it through the "Big Inch" to a series of salt water pools in the Middle West, with the "Little Big Inch" utilized to carry sea air for giving the proper seaside atmosphere; and another to start carbonated water through the pipes in Texas, add Bourbon in Kentucky, route the concoction through the "ice mines" of Pennsylvania and so on to the consumer.

But, here is the occasion for a real chuckle: a plan to run Texas jackrabbits through on the hoof to eastern consumption centers, on the theory that "anything becomes a delicacy if it is moved far enough" with the added notation that if a specified number of rabbits are introduced into the southwestern end of the pipes, a much larger number would emerge at the eastern terminal, thus providing additional offsets for the meat shortage.

It takes the American mind, with its exaggerated sense of humor, to cook up schemes like that; and before these go the rounds there will be other startling proposals for the use of the lines.

Signs Are Seen Of Anti-Inflation Move by Workers

By MARK SULLIVAN

Mr. Chester Bowles, contending for price control the way he wants it, and opposing the version passed by Congress, and in both attitudes seeming to assume that he stands for the people while Congress does not, said:

"I feel that the people will realize that we cannot take the lid off for half the economy and hold it down for the rest..."

That seems odd, coming from Mr. Bowles, for this is much what the administration tried to do—raise the lid of that half of the economy which is wages, but hold it down on that part which is prices. As Mr. Bowles continued, it turned out that he was opposing a congressional amendment which, as he interpreted it, would keep price control over some lines of business, such as residentialy rents, and take it off some other lines. Mr. Bowles was talking about quarters of the economy, rather than halfs.

Denial of a Truth

But what Mr. Bowles said is a universal truth. And what the administration has tried to do—raise wages but keep prices down—is a denial of that truth. In steel, automobiles, packing and other industries, wages were raised—in one case, steel, the wage raise was prescribed by President Truman personally. In due course, price increases followed, and the Office of Price Administration, when announcing them, said that the price increase was due to the wage raise. Failure of the attempted dual policy caused what President Truman admitted to be a "bulge" in the line of defense against inflation. (The forthright Mr. Bernard Baruch called it "a break and a serious one".)

In addition to the direct and tangible setback to the fight against inflation caused by the dual policy and the failure of it, there has been a psychological harm. The battle morale of the people, their willingness to resist inflation and endure deprivation in order to help, their trust that the administration had the will and the wisdom to make the fight, has been impaired. One of several manifestations of the psychological harm is the demand by farm leaders in Congress for increases in the prices of crops, meaning food. When the administration resisted this, the reply of Senator Russell of Georgia was:

Inflation Cry Raised

"They say it is not inflationary to raise the price of steel $5 a ton in order to allow a wage increase of eighteen and a half cents an hour. But the minute anyone mentions raising farm prices...for the producer of agricultural commodities, they raise the hue and cry of inflation."

That spirit among farmers and their leaders is a consequence of seeing the administration set out, willingly, to favor one group, labor, by wage raises; and then, when obliged to, unwillingly make a confession to another group, business, by granting the price increases which the wage raises necessitated. In effect the farm leaders are saying: "If raises for one, then raises for all—we want ours."

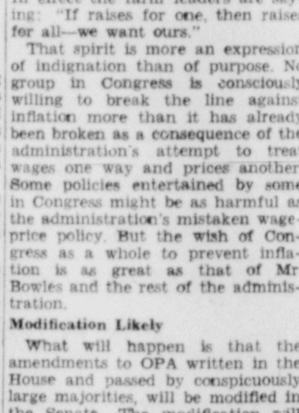
That spirit is more an expression of indignation than of purpose. No group in Congress is consciously willing to break the line against inflation more than it has already been broken as a consequence of the administration's attempt to treat wages one way and prices another. Some policies entertained by some in Congress might be as harmful as the administration's mistaken wage-price policy. But the wish of Congress as a whole to prevent inflation is as great as that of Mr. Bowles and the rest of the administration.

Modification Likely

What will happen is that the amendments to OPA written in the House and passed by conspicuously large majorities, will be modified in the Senate. The modification will be in the interest of making the fight against inflation more effective.

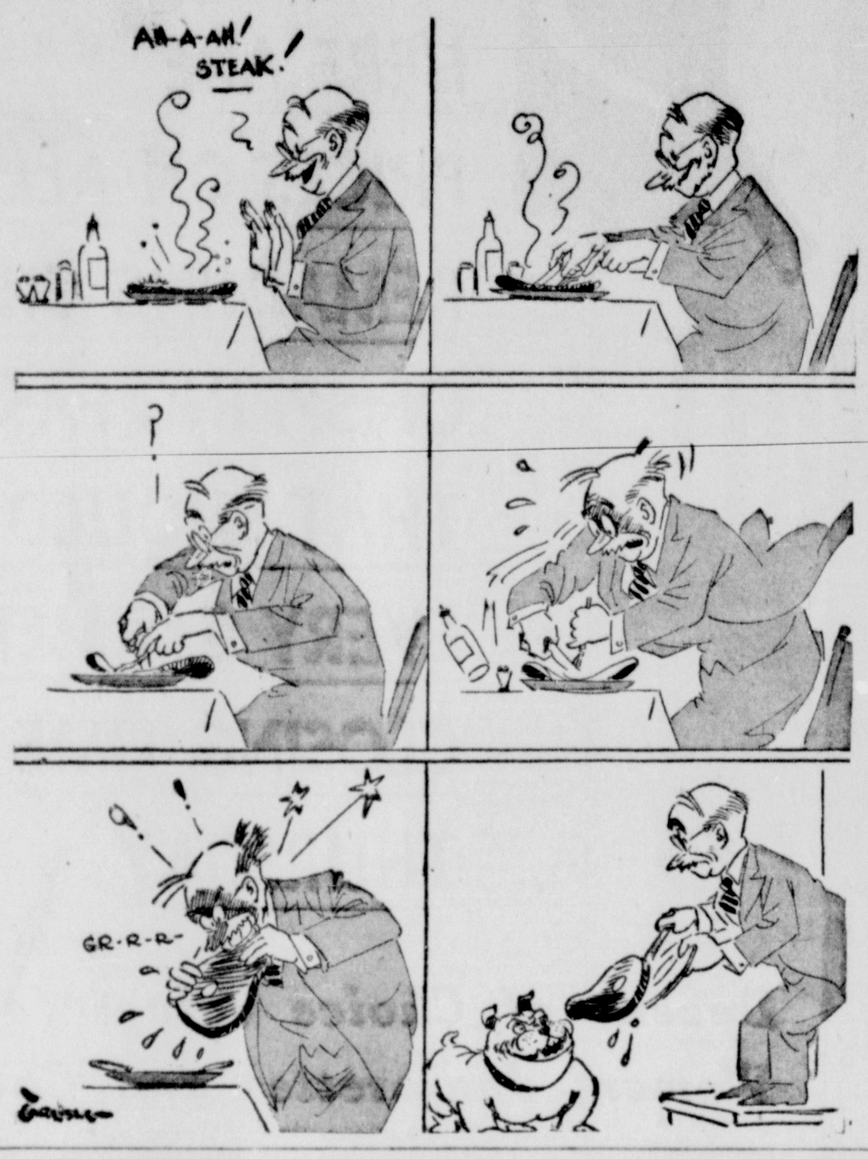
But the mechanism that works toward inflation—raises in wages, followed by increases in prices, and these in turn followed by more demands for wage raises—is still in motion. There are signs that an end may come, not through action by the administration, nor any other political action, but from within the world of workers. There are tangible signs that the rank and file have come to realize the futility of strikes which stall production, and wage-raises that are soon made ineffective by increased prices and higher cost of living. Persons familiar with labor sentiment put much faith in this.

MAY SUCCEED BOSS



SHOULD Janet Pratt be chosen to succeed the late Rep. William O. Burgin (D., N.C.) in the special election to be held May 25, she will have little to learn on congressional procedure. She was secretary to Burgin and other members of the House for twenty-five years. If successful, she will be the first woman member of Congress from North Carolina.

SOMETHING THE BLACK MARKET DRAGGED IN



THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Nation Can Fulfil Its Food Promises Only by Skimping, Drew Pearson Says

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, May 1.—Here are two unpleasant but inescapable facts regarding the food shortage. They must be kept in mind if the Anglo-American nations are to alleviate world-wide starvation.

1. Only by careful skimping on the part of housewives, hotels and restaurants, can the United States fulfil its food promises. There just isn't enough grain and oil to go round—unless we pull in our belts.

2. United States officials aren't saying much, but they weren't happy over English and Canadian co-operation—or lack of co-operation—in allocating their grain surplus to Europe.

British slowness, however, is considered no excuse for American failure to meet commitments; so United States officials will continue their all-out efforts. However, here is what we are up against: Wheat on hand in this country as of January 1 totalled 689,000,000 bushels. Of this, the January-June use of wheat will be 70,000,000 bushels for feed; 23,000,000 for seed, 150,000,000 bushels for carryover; leaving almost 450,000,000 bushels for human consumption and export.

Agriculture Secretary Clinton Anderson's recent flour curtailment order will probably reduce human consumption in this country to about 260,000,000 bushels, leaving less than 300,000,000 bushels for export.

Against that, we have a commitment of 225,000,000 bushels to be shipped before the end of June. In other words, unless there is great individual saving there just won't be enough wheat to go round.

Fat Famine

The same thing is also true of fats and oils. We just won't have them on hand for export unless every housewife is more frugal than ever. Here is the lineup: On April 1, stocks of butter totalled only 14,964,000 pounds against 29,833,000 last year.

Cottonseed oil totalled 1,492,900 pounds against 1,756,400 last year.

Lard totalled 81,435,000 pounds against 49,728,000 pounds last year and 403,151,000 two years ago.

Actually the fat picture is worse than most people realize and the Russians are faced with such a serious shortage that they have gone to the Argentine and are bidding against us for linseed oil. Ordinarily we buy the Argentine linseed crop for paint. The Russians will use it for human consumption, however, and are willing to bid high.

British Wheat Reserve

United States agricultural officials don't say much about it, but they have been griped at the British. Secretary Anderson held up his flour-milling cut for about three weeks waiting for the British to agree to ship some of their 1,000,000 ton wheat surplus to the famine stricken continent. Normally 1,000,000 tons is not a large surplus for the British but United States officials argued that in the present emergency this could be sent to Europe, with a saving of valuable time and shipping, while we got more wheat to the Atlantic seaboard.

Then with the new summer wheat crop coming in, we would replenish British reserves.

Finally London came through with an offer of only 200,000 tons, providing the United States and Canada repaced it without too much delay.

Secretary Anderson also was disappointed when the Canadians matched our twenty-five per cent cut with a promise of only 2,500,000 bushels of wheat plus 5,000,000 bushels of oats.

Note — Canada has about one-eleventh the population of the USA and about one-third our wheat crop, though she has been exporting heavily to England.

Politics in the Desert

The wide-open spaces of New Mexico are about to see the most turbulent political fight in years—with three colorful figures battling for the United States Senate.

Gov. Jack Dempsey (no relation to the boxer) who jumped from Brooklyn subway brakeman to New Mexican politician, has finally decided to enter the race. He will oppose Sen. Dennis Chavez in the Democratic primaries.

Whoever wins will then have to cross swords with grandstanding Patrick J. Hurley, ex-secretary of war, ex-ambassador to China, and the man who breathed fire down the back of the State department regarding allegedly "pink" diplomats. In the end, the Senate made Hurley look a trifle red in the face himself.

A former Oklahoma lawyer, Hurley has been itching to get back into politics, and about two years ago took up residence in New Mexico with that in view. That state long has been considered a happy hunting ground for disappointed politicians who lost out back east.

Jack Dempsey, though of Brooklyn origin, has been successfully gyrating through New Mexican politics for two decades. He was lone Congressman from New Mexico, later under secretary of the interior, then governor. During this time he built up his own machine; and he will need it to buck Sen. Chavez who, as author of the Fair Employment Practices act, has endeared himself to Spanish residents of New Mexico.

Note—Chavez also has hit the all-time high for putting relatives on the government payroll.

Famine Notes

One reason for the poor wheat crop in Europe is the lack of horses. Great numbers of horses were eaten during the war; others were drafted by the military and shot in battle . . . United States wheat failed to move to the Atlantic seaboard in usual amounts this spring partly because of a spring thaw which made country roads impassable . . . Another delay factor—in addition to shortage of boxcars—was income taxes. Farmers wanted to wait until this year to harvest their grain, when income-tax brackets would be lower . . . At our present rate of export, England will soon have a larger wheat reserve than the USA . . . United States meat production last year topped 20,000,000 pounds but may fall off this year. We have promised Europe 1,600,000,000 pounds of meat for 1946 . . . Chief reason for the world wide wheat shortage is the Argentine-Australian drought. Also North Africa, which normally exports to Italy and France, this year had to import wheat.

Capital Chaff

Rep. Hugh Delacy, of Washington, has offered West Point appointments to two ex-GI's who came out on top in the West Point entrance exams, but they have turned down a free army education. Say they prefer to learn about and live under civilian democracy . . . When former Treasury Secretary Henry Morgenthau traveled in Europe during the war, secret service insisted that he use another name in order that he not be a taget for Nazi pilots. Morganthau was known as Henry Murphy . . . Despite the serious shortage of fats and oils here, Secretary of Agriculture Anderson has been unable to get any help to bring the 25,000 or 30,000 tons of copra which have been available for the gathering in the Philippines for over a year.

Treaty by Byrnes Is Viewed as a Master Stroke

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, May 1—Why should the United States suddenly spring on the world a proposal for a treaty of twenty-five years duration that binds Russia, America, Britain and France to a guarantee against possible aggression by Germany? One might have supposed that the United Nations would see to it that there would be no aggression by Germany or any other nation. Does this mean then that there is any lack of faith in the United Nations organization?

These questions were being asked here today as a consequence of the rather sensational move in Paris by Secretary Byrnes. Indeed, the treaty was a complete surprise to official Washington. Even the joint chiefs of staff and the military folks generally didn't have any word about it in advance. They naturally favor the plan and probably would have approved it but the important fact is that the whole thing has been kept a secret, though work has progressed on it in the department of State for several months.

Nor is the idea itself the product of the administration's thinking alone. Senator Vandenberg proposed the same thing in a speech a year or so ago, which is an indication that the measure will have strong support from both major parties if it comes before the Senate.

Prompted by Russian Attitude

The basic reason for the proposition has to do with the way matters have shaped up in the world since V-J day. Russia has been operating on a one-sided basis throughout Eastern Europe. In the Russian zone of occupation in Germany, the Russians are plainly violating the Potsdam agreement. They are communizing Eastern Germany. The whole Russian policy in demanding friendly states on their borders and the oft-repeated cry of "security" are based on the hypothesis that Germany is planning new aggression.

To checkmate that theory and to reveal to all the world that there is no need for Russian fears or for her expansion under the guise of "security," the Byrnes-Vandenberg treaty now is offered. It is apparent that Molotov was caught by surprise. He doesn't know quite what to make of it.

But here is a treaty made to order for Russia. Once she accepts it, there can be no justification for arguing on every occasion that what is being done by the Russian armies of occupation is designed to exterminate fascism.

Same as under Charter

The significance of the American maneuver cannot be over-estimated. The United States would pledge itself to participation in military measures as against possible German aggression. Such a treaty, if ratified, would naturally increase the need for military preparation to fulfill such obligation but, on the other hand, the commitment is not any larger than would be the case anyway under the United Nations charter, which the president and secretary of state recently stated that this country was determined to defend.

As to whether the move indicates any less faith in the United Nations organization and its capacity to keep the peace, the answer is that the United States hopes to rely on both instruments—the new treaty and the UN charter. If by any device of procedural delay or the wilful obstruction of any major power, there is an impediment in the UN to the prompt operation of the charter in handling German aggression, the new treaty would nevertheless come into instant effect by the action of only four powers.

Task Simplified

Britain and France would presumably be concerned at once and would want to see aggression nipped in the bud. The United States would have as its major interest the prevention of any world-wide conflagration. As for Russia, it might or might not agree that what the Germans were doing was aggression. This would depend on whether the Russians had control through their Communistic party of what was being done in the name of the German government. But certainly if the German government were hostile to Russia, the British, French and American support for the Russian demand for protection against aggression would simplify the task of maintaining peace in Central Europe.

The treaty proposal is a master stroke. Strangely enough, it parallels the proposal made by President Wilson in 1919 whereby Britain, France and the United States were to guarantee France against German aggression. The treaty failed of action because the League of Nations covenant was rejected. Maybe this time, since the charter has been adopted by the U. S. Senate, the guarantee will be likewise approved.

The Ground Of One's Joy

By GEORGE MATTHE WADAMS

Stevenson says that "the ground of a man's joy is often hard to hit. It may hinge at times upon a mere accessory, like a lantern." I have a small island Nova Scotia summer camp. I hardlye ver mention it but what I am asked: "Do you fish?" And I have to inform my questioner that I rarely do, that I find greater joy in sitting on a log, or on the back steps of my log dining cabin, feeding peanuts to the red squirrels that seek my benevolence!

The late Franklin D. Roosevelt found joy in his stamp collection. John Muir found his among the mountains and glaciers. Many a rich man has found his in the collecting, and giving away of priceless works of are. Henry Ford found his in the creating of early Americana, reproducing the spirit of the days of the pioneers, and of those who built and advanced America.

My friend, Wilfred Funk, gets his joy out of the study and uses of words, as well as in their application to a useful end. And I met a man in Florida who gets his joy out of capturing and exhibiting snakes! And many a woman gets her joy from the hunting and acquiring of antiques. And so it goes It matters little just what the pursuit may be, so long as the joy results.

The ground of one's joy may even be no more than that which deals with the imagination — the boy dreaming of being the King, and the King dreaming of being the boy with his can of worms and fishing tackle. Or the farmer behind his plough, sailing the seven seas in his sturdy sailing craft. Stevenson was right—"a many's joy is often hard to hit."

An artist friend of mine once took me to a small cabin on his estate, where he showed me hundreds of bottles of every description, many of them most rare, and all of them interesting. I had never dreamed that there were so many kinds of bottles in the entire world. And yet, this friend gained supreme joy from his hunt and from his great collection.

Every one of our lives should be paved with as much innocent gaiety as possible. We need a stream of joyous pursuits to keep us alert and creative.

It Says Here

BY BOB HOPE

You certainly hear a lot of singing commercials on the air these days. To be a successful modern songwriter, you have to study Bach, Beethoven and a sales chart. One composer I know is working on several sure-fire hits now: "I will love you in December as I did before you started using Gergen's molasses and cashew cream for your rough, dry skin"....And, "Two hearts that beat in Rinkersall watch ... curved-to-fit-your-elbow ... time."

Nowadays, when a sponsor wants to sell a product, he doesn't call an advertising agency....He contacts Toscanini. Nelson Eddy was lined up to do a singing commercial for a wine company, but it didn't work out. The wine kept soaking up in his shortnin' bread!....And one sedative firm has a commercial that sounds like a train. It's a sort of "Atchinson, Topeka, and the Santa Burp!"

But sponsors are looking for something that will attract the listeners' attention even more than the musical break. My brother has worked up something new called the "nudging commercial." When you're listening to a program and it's time for the plug, the announcer just hums quietly for twenty seconds to distract you while a fellow sneaks in your window, nudges you in the ribs with a forty-five and says, "Okay, bub, get goin' down to the corner store for a cake of Yerkle's soap, or else!"....Any interested sales manager can write to my brother about this idea. The warden will see that he gets the letters.

Valley Road Club Names Delegates To Short Course

The Valley Road Homemakers Club elected Mrs. George Kraft, Mrs. E. O. Fritch and Mrs. Frank A. Perdew delegates to the Rural Women's Short Course, at the meeting yesterday at the Girl Scout little house, with Mrs. William J. Edwards presiding.

Speaking on "Law Pertaining To the Home," George Henderson, attorney at law, stressed that it is safer to have titles to property before purchasing a home, in that way, he pointed out, one is certain of what one is getting. He also warned his audience not to pay for property first; to have titles examined before purchasing; and to place titles in the name of both husband and wife, as tenants by the entireties. In this way he explained the home is owned by both so that when one dies the title goes to the survivor. If the property has a judgment against it and the husband dies first, the property is free from the judgment, he said; but if the husband is the survivor, the judgment remains on the property.

A style review was held featuring clothing made by members during the year. It was under the direction of Mrs. R. S. Martin and those taking part were Mrs. Otis P. Jewitt, Mrs. Lawrence Shafferman, Mrs. Charles Callis, Mrs. C. R. Koegel, Mrs. Perdew, Mrs. Charles Feeser and Mrs. D. W. Root.

Valley Road Club Names Delegates To Short Course

The Valley Road Homemakers Club elected Mrs. George Kraft, Mrs. E. O. Fritch and Mrs. Frank A. Perdew delegates to the Rural Women's Short Course, at the meeting yesterday at the Girl Scout little house, with Mrs. William J. Edwards presiding.

Speaking on "Law Pertaining To the Home," George Henderson, attorney at law, stressed that it is safer to have titles to property before purchasing a home, in that way, he pointed out, one is certain of what one is getting. He also warned his audience not to pay for property first; to have titles examined before purchasing; and to place titles in the name of both husband and wife, as tenants by the entireties. In this way he explained the home is owned by both so that when one dies the title goes to the survivor. If the property has a judgment against it and the husband dies first, the property is free from the judgment, he said; but if the husband is the survivor, the judgment remains on the property.

A style review was held featuring clothing made by members during the year. It was under the direction of Mrs. R. S. Martin and those taking part were Mrs. Otis P. Jewitt, Mrs. Lawrence Shafferman, Mrs. Charles Callis, Mrs. C. R. Koegel, Mrs. Perdew, Mrs. Charles Feeser and Mrs. D. W. Root.

Rise in Prices for Next Several Years Is Termed Almost Inevitable

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 1 (AP) — The United States Chamber of Commerce, whose board of directors has recommended abolition of the major powers of OPA by next October have been told that a general rise in prices for the next several years was almost inevitable.

After a statement by Eric Johnston, chamber president, that the end of OPA in the immediate future would put American business in the "national doghouse," Harvard University Professor Sumner H. Slichter said termination of OPA should be based on conditions rather than an arbitrary date.

Slichter said in a speech before 2,000 delegates to the chamber's thirty-fourth annual meeting that the current sellers' market would keep labor unions in a strong bargaining position and that they would make large, new wage demands next winter.

Success by the unions would result in higher prices and still further wage demands, he said.

"All of this means that a general rise in prices for several years at least is almost inevitable," he declared. "Only a large sudden burst of technological progress can prevent it."

Slichter recommended that in view of a possible "disorderly rise in prices," the government should postpone all public works such as building roads, schools, bridges and utilities which were not urgently needed.

He said that despite shortcomings of OPA, businessmen still were seeking to hire more labor than they could obtain.

"Civilian employment is over 2,000,000 above last year and unemployment is down to 2,700,000—a little above the lowest practical peacetime minimum," he said. "Acute labor shortages exist in some of the very industries where OPA restrictions are accused of limiting production."

Slichter said the OPA offered no effective protection against a rising wage-price spiral, adding that if prices were held down while labor costs went up there would be "an explosive and speculative rise in prices when OPA goes out of existence."

Johnston told a reporter just before the chamber's three-day meeting opened that with the end of OPA in the immediate future American business would go into the "national doghouse" within a week—"and I mean the last stall in the doghouse, too."

Johnston said abolition of price controls with the expiration of OPA June 30 —a move advocated by the National Association of Manufacturers — "would be suicidal." He said businessmen had not yet been conditioned for sudden decontrol and that "the worst thing that could happen to us would be for prices to spiral and for us to have a period of boom and bust."

Pediatric, Nutrition Clinics Scheduled

A pediatric clinic will be held Wednesday, May 8, from 9 a. m. until 3 p. m. in the basement of city hall, according to Dr. Joseph P. Franklin, city and county health officer.

The clinic will be conducted by Dr. Virginia G. Harris, pediatric consultant for the state department of health.

A nutrition clinic will be held Thursday, May 9, from 9 a. m. until 3 p. m. at city hall by Miss Mayton Zickefoose, nutritionist for the state department of health.

Approximately thirty appointments have been made for the clinics. Dr. Harris and Miss Zickefoose will be present at both clinics.

222 County Children Examined at Clinic

A total of 222 children were examined at the orthopedic clinic held Friday and Saturday at headquarters of the Allegany County League for Crippled Children, league officials said yesterday.

One hundred and sixty-seven children attended the clinic Friday and fifty-five Saturday.

Four doctors, including one Chinese physician, conducted the clinic. They are Drs. George E. Bennett, George O. Eaton and David Weinberg, all of Baltimore, and Ke-Chin Yang, the latter from Shanghai, China.

Dr. Yang is spending two years in the United States to learn American methods of orthopedic treatment and will return to China to set up clinic and hospital centers similar to the one in operation here.

More than 100 Garrett county children were examined and treated at an orthopedic clinic held in Oakland last Thursday by Dr. Eaton.

FBI Holds Session Here for Officers

Sixty law enforcement officers representing city, state, county and industrial police forces of this area, attended a conference sponsored by the Federal Bureau of Investigation Tuesday morning, in the city hall auditorium.

Photography was the key-note of the meeting, with a number of newly developed and improved cameras and other devices exhibited by Roy B. Preston, assistant chief of photography of the FBI laboratory in Washington, D. C.

Preston exhibited such cameras as a miniature, "cigaret size" affair, which takes fifty miniature pictures on a single roll of film. He also showed the new uses of motion pictures in crime detection, and explained how pictures are used and accepted as conclusive in crime cases in court.

City Detective Edward Lilya, local police photographer, exhibited a number of interesting photographs showing how local police are using pictures to record accidents and other investigated cases. Lilya said the police force here has a newly equipped photograph laboratory and more equipment is to be obtained. He exhibited a number of pictures, involving fatal and near-fatal traffic accidents of local interest, and said a file is being compiled on all major traffic mishaps in the city.

Fred Halliford, chief of the Baltimore FBI bureau, spoke on the "Unlawful Flight to Avoid Prosecution act," and explained eight cases or types of cases in which the FBI can be of assistance in apprehending persons wanted by local police.

Robert Hickman, special agent from Baltimore, spoke on the "National Stolen Property act" and the "National Fraudulent Check File." He explained the file is of great value in locating and apprehending "bad check artists" who might come into the community, cash checks and move on. The file is so arranged that comparison of handwriting and fingerprints makes it possible to identify and locate these criminals easily and quickly. He urged local police to use the facilities of the FBI, and to take advantage of help offered by these types of files and their laboratory.

Slider Gets Permit To Build Residence

Clyde S. Slider, 520 Ridgewood avenue, secured a permit in the city engineer's office Tuesday to build a six-room brick residence, estimated to cost $6,000, on Lot 13 and part of Lot 12, Block 29, Edgevale avenue.

The one and a half story house will measure 32 by 28 feet, with a concrete block foundation, brick walls and a composition shingle roof. Work will be done by Slider.

A building permit was granted to Thomas V. Litzenburg, representing the Arthur Litzenburg Company, Inc., to construct two twenty-four sheet poster panels to be located on Baltimore and Ohio railroad property south of Laing avenue near the end of Springdale street.

The permit was granted on condition that the poster panels, which will be ten feet high and twenty-four feet long, with metal and frame walls, will be so located that they are not within "falling distance" of the street. A statement signed by five residents of the area, asserting that they had no objection to the erection of the panels, was attached to the permit application. Construction work, to be done by the company, is estimated to cost $75.

An occupancy permit was secured by J. M. Felmlee, 213 Bedford street, to use part of the first floor of a two-story brick building at 160 North Mechanic street as a second-hand clothing store. The premises will be shared with the radio service store located at the same address.

Mrs. C. L. Lavin, 501 Beall street, secured a permit to use the basement of the two-story brick building at that address for developing pictures as a part-time activity. The building is owned by Mrs. C. E. Gerkins, of the same address.

Four doctors, including one Chinese physician, conducted the clinic. They are Drs. George E. Bennett, George O. Eaton and David Weinberg, all of Baltimore, and Ke-Chin Yang, the latter from Shanghai, China.

Dr. Yang is spending two years in the United States to learn American methods of orthopedic treatment and will return to China to set up clinic and hospital centers similar to the one in operation here.

More than 100 Garrett county children were examined and treated at an orthopedic clinic held in Oakland last Thursday by Dr. Eaton.

FBI Holds Session Here for Officers

Sixty law enforcement officers representing city, state, county and industrial police forces of this area, attended a conference sponsored by the Federal Bureau of Investigation Tuesday morning, in the city hall auditorium.

Photography was the key-note of the meeting, with a number of newly developed and improved cameras and other devices exhibited by Roy B. Preston, assistant chief of photography of the FBI laboratory in Washington, D. C.

Preston exhibited such cameras as a miniature, "cigaret size" affair, which takes fifty miniature pictures on a single roll of film. He also showed the new uses of motion pictures in crime detection, and explained how pictures are used and accepted as conclusive in crime cases in court.

City Detective Edward Lilya, local police photographer, exhibited a number of interesting photographs showing how local police are using pictures to record accidents and other investigated cases. Lilya said the police force here has a newly equipped photograph laboratory and more equipment is to be obtained. He exhibited a number of pictures, involving fatal and near-fatal traffic accidents of local interest, and said a file is being compiled on all major traffic mishaps in the city.

Fred Halliford, chief of the Baltimore FBI bureau, spoke on the "Unlawful Flight to Avoid Prosecution act," and explained eight cases or types of cases in which the FBI can be of assistance in apprehending persons wanted by local police.

Robert Hickman, special agent from Baltimore, spoke on the "National Stolen Property act" and the "National Fraudulent Check File." He explained the file is of great value in locating and apprehending "bad check artists" who might come into the community, cash checks and move on. The file is so arranged that comparison of handwriting and fingerprints makes it possible to identify and locate these criminals easily and quickly. He urged local police to use the facilities of the FBI, and to take advantage of help offered by these types of files and their laboratory.

Slider Gets Permit To Build Residence

Clyde S. Slider, 520 Ridgewood avenue, secured a permit in the city engineer's office Tuesday to build a six-room brick residence, estimated to cost $6,000, on Lot 13 and part of Lot 12, Block 29, Edgevale avenue.

The one and a half story house will measure 32 by 28 feet, with a concrete block foundation, brick walls and a composition shingle roof. Work will be done by Slider.

A building permit was granted to Thomas V. Litzenburg, representing the Arthur Litzenburg Company, Inc., to construct two twenty-four sheet poster panels to be located on Baltimore and Ohio railroad property south of Laing avenue near the end of Springdale street.

The permit was granted on condition that the poster panels, which will be ten feet high and twenty-four feet long, with metal and frame walls, will be so located that they are not within "falling distance" of the street. A statement signed by five residents of the area, asserting that they had no objection to the erection of the panels, was attached to the permit application. Construction work, to be done by the company, is estimated to cost $75.

An occupancy permit was secured by J. M. Felmlee, 213 Bedford street, to use part of the first floor of a two-story brick building at 160 North Mechanic street as a second-hand clothing store. The premises will be shared with the radio service store located at the same address.

Mrs. C. L. Lavin, 501 Beall street, secured a permit to use the basement of the two-story brick building at that address for developing pictures as a part-time activity. The building is owned by Mrs. C. E. Gerkins, of the same address.

38 U. S. Generals Are Reduced One Grade

WASHINGTON, May 1 (AP) — Thirty-eight generals, including several wartime division commanders, have been stepped down one grade in keeping with the army's shrinking size.

At the same time the War department reported that from a wartime peak of 1,541 general officers, all but 660 have been reduced in rank, retired or are on the way to the inactive list.

In the latest list of reductions were sixteen major generals who become brigadier generals. They included Charles H. Gerhardt, commander in Europe of the Twenty-ninth Infantry division which originally was composed of Maryland, Virginia and District of Columbia national guardsmen.

21 Men Enroll For Marine Corps Local Platoon

Recruiters Seek Sixty Enlistments for Unit by June 4

Twenty-one men of this area, have applied to the Marine Corps recruiting office for enlistment in the Cumberland Platoon, which will be inducted in a public ceremony from the stage of a local theater, June 4, according to M-Sgt. B. D. Legg, local recruiter.

Sgt. Legg explained that he and S-Sgt. Murrel Brainerd have been working on the idea for the past two weeks, with the hope of enrolling sixty men, a full strength platoon, which will leave here as a unit, train as a unit, return for furlough as a unit and then return to headquarters as a unit for assignment.

The platoon will be sworn in at the planned public ceremony by Major K. B. Pickle, of the Baltimore Procurement office for the Marine Corps, and will leave here for Quantico, Va., or Parris Island, S. C., on June 5.

Of the twenty-one applicants, Legg explained, eight men are from Lonaconing; four from Oakland; two from Westernport; one from Cumberland; four from Keyser, W. Va., and two from Romney, W. Va.

A number of young men who will graduate from high schools in the county this month, have inquired about the platoon, and both the recruiting sergeants believe they can enlist sufficient men to form the full strength platoon.

Last month, seventeen men were sent to Baltimore after enlisting at the local marine office. Of this number, nine were accepted for active duty and training, and one more will be accepted later, when he obtains a waiver on his teeth, which need some repairs, Brainerd said.

Of the men accepted last month for service in the corps, two are from Creilin; three from Cumberland; one from Midland; one from Cresaptown; one from Jefferson, Md., formerly of this city, and one from Ridgeley, W. Va.

The local recruiters said this week that qualifications have been lowered on vision and teeth, for enlistment in the corps, but other physical standards have been maintained.

Marine Corps League Plans Installation Ceremony June 2

Francis K. Finan Detachment Marine Corps League, recently organized here, will hold its first installation of officers and receive its charter, Sunday, June 2, at a ceremony open to members, their families and guests.

At a meeting of the detachment Monday, according to Commandant Herman M. Heller, it was announced that Past National Commandant F. E. O'Leary of Cincinnati, Ohio, will be here to present the charter and install officers.

Plans were also discussed to continue efforts to purchase, lease, or rent, a suitable building to serve as permanent quarters for the local detachment. Several plans for financing activity of the organization were also discussed.

Several new members were admitted, and the active roster now includes sixty-seven marines and ex-marines of this area, Heller said.

Willie Lives in an "Almost" Home

Willie Wells is one of many G.I.'s stationed overseas to keep the Peace. Not to forget them, let me describe a snapshot that he sent.

It's the inside of a house where Willie's quartered . . . except the boys have fixed it up as much as possible to look like a typical American home. They've hung up pictures of their families, cultivated a stray puppy for a house pet.

And the snapshot shows Willie and his buddies sitting by their hearth, drinking friendly American beer and reading the home-town paper. "Almost like being back in Clover Corners," says the caption.

From where I sit, that "almost" packs a lot of meaning. Thousands of our boys are still overseas, trying to make their quarters homelike, even to the pet dog and the friendly glass of beer. Let's not forget to write them often—remind them that home is waiting—and it's not an "almost" home either.

Parks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Parks, Parsons, in a single ring ceremony solemnized in the rectory of the St. Finbar's Catholic church in Brooklyn, Sunday, April 21, with the Rev. Mrs. Parks attended Brown's Business college and prior to her marriage was employed by Salomon Brothers and Hutzler, a brokerage firm in New York City.

Lack of Fuel May Cause Moorefield Plant To Close

By KATHERINE FISHER

MOOREFIELD, W. Va., May 1—The Thompson Mahogany Company, local veneering plant, faces the prospect of closing down due to lack of fuel. Company officials have been unable to secure a supply of coal from the usual sources and truckers are prevented from hauling coal from the mines.

Martin Kelley, superintendent of the plant, said the present supply of coal would be exhausted within the next two or three weeks. Firemen are now mixing sawdust and scraps from the plant with coal to stretch the present supply of fuel.

Approximately sixty-five men will be thrown out of work if the local plant is forced to close down. The local tannery, also employing about sixty-five men, has a ninety-days supply of fuel.

Candidates Are Scarce

Only four candidates for office have filed as of Wednesday morning with the deadline, Saturday, May 4, only three days away. Tom Gerard, incumbent, and Albert Halterman, have filed for county commissioner from Moorefield district, U. Alf Hedrick has filed for member of the county board of education and George Trumbo has filed for the House of Delegates. Both Hedrick and Trumbo are seeking re-election.

Firemen Give Banquet

A total of thirty-four guests attended the Moorefield Volunteer Fire Company's $5,000 dinner and were presented with certificates of honorary lifetime membership in the organization. The guests had each donated $100 to the building fund in the last three weeks of the drive.

Ralph J. Bean, chairman of the banquet committee, presented the awards and Judge H. M. Calhoun gave a brief talk about the history, purpose and accomplishments of the fire company.

After the banquet the guests were shown through the newly remodeled quarters of the fire company. The building has the old Inskeep Hall auditorium with a capacity of 400, a recreation room, a banquet room, a fully equipped kitchen, a room to house the truck and equipment, showers for the firemen and a new heating plant.

The names of the donors not previously reported are S. L. Harper, Sr., Dr. J. M. Harman, George S. Mathias, J. Natwick Company, Clyde L. Friddle, Coffman Fisher Company, Mrs. J. Curtis McCoy, W. A. Harper, T. J. Bergdoll, Mrs. George Kuhn, and Shawnee Milling Company, of Petersburg.

Parks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Parks, Parsons, in a single ring ceremony solemnized in the rectory of the St. Finbar's Catholic church in Brooklyn, Sunday, April 21, with the Rev. Father Fraley officiating.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Frank Tardi, was attired in a floor-length gown of white marquisette and jersey. Her finger tipped veil of bridal illusion was attached to a heart-shaped tiara. She carried an old fashioned bouquet of white gladioli.

Her maid of honor, Miss Mae Miragliatta, cousin of the bride, was attired in a peach gown similar to that of the bride's and carried a majching bouquet.

The bride's mother wore a street length dress of black with white accessories and a corsage of gardinias.

Following the ceremony a buffet reception was held at the home of the bride's mother for members of the immediate families and a few friends. The large three tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom, was used as a center decoration for the table.

Mrs. Parks attended Brown's Business college and prior to her marriage was employed by Salomon Brothers and Hutzler, a brokerage firm in New York City.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Parsons high school and recently returned from the ETO where he served for eighteen months. He was discharged after four years of army service. He is now co-owner of the Parsons Dry Cleaners in Parsons. The couple will reside here.

Lack of Fuel May Cause Moorefield Plant To Close

By KATHERINE FISHER

MOOREFIELD, W. Va., May 1—The Thompson Mahogany Company, local veneering plant, faces the prospect of closing down due to lack of fuel. Company officials have been unable to secure a supply of coal from the usual sources and truckers are prevented from hauling coal from the mines.

Martin Kelley, superintendent of the plant, said the present supply of coal would be exhausted within the next two or three weeks. Firemen are now mixing sawdust and scraps from the plant with coal to stretch the present supply of fuel.

Approximately sixty-five men will be thrown out of work if the local plant is forced to close down. The local tannery, also employing about sixty-five men, has a ninety-days supply of fuel.

Candidates Are Scarce

Only four candidates for office have filed as of Wednesday morning with the deadline, Saturday, May 4, only three days away. Tom Gerard, incumbent, and Albert Halterman, have filed for county commissioner from Moorefield district. U. Alf Hedrick has filed for member of the county board of education and George Trumbo has filed for the House of Delegates. Both Hedrick and Trumbo are seeking re-election.

Firemen Give Banquet

A total of thirty-four guests attended the Moorefield Volunteer Fire Company's $5,000 dinner and were presented with certificates of honorary lifetime membership in the organization. The guests had each donated $100 to the building fund in the last three weeks of the drive.

Ralph J. Bean, chairman of the banquet committee, presented the awards and Judge H. M. Calhoun gave a brief talk about the history, purpose and accomplishments of the fire company.

After the banquet the guests were shown through the newly remodeled quarters of the fire company. The building has the old Inskeep Hall auditorium with a capacity of 400, a recreation room, a banquet room, a fully equipped kitchen, a room to house the truck and equipment, showers for the firemen and a new heating plant.

The names of the donors not previously reported are S. L. Harper, Sr., Dr. J. M. Harman, George S. Mathias, J. Natwick Company, Clyde L. Priddle, Coffman Fisher Company, Mrs. J. Curtis McCoy, W. A. Harper, T. J Bergdoll, Mrs. George Kuhn, and Shawnee Milling Company, of Petersburg.

Stocks Move Irregularly Lower In Quietest Market in a Month

NEW YORK, May 1—(AP)—Stocks moved irregularly lower today in the quietest market in a month although selected issues responded to favorable earnings or dividend news.

Selling pressure hit liquors following the reduction ordered on use of grains, but a few recovered the day's losses. Steels and some industrials dependent on that metal gave ground reflecting fears of widespread operating shutdowns because of coal shortages. Rails improved, and number of pivotal oils, motors and rubbers were steady.

Total transfers of 980,000 shares were the lowest for a full day since March 28 and compared with 1,000,000 Tuesday. Of 964 issues registering, 409 declined and 312 advanced.

Attaining higher ground were American Telephone, Standard Oil (NJ) (on an extra dividend), Union Carbide, Southern Pacific, Chrysler, American Smelting, United States Rubber, Deere and Company and Montgomery Ward.

Allis Chalmers dropped two and three-eighths to close at $78.37; American Distilling was off three and one-half at $66; Schenley at $78.37 lost two and three-eighths. Others on the offside included Youngstown Sheet, General Motors, Goodyear, Caterpillar Tractor, International Harvester, Douglas Aircraft, Boeing, Kennecott, Allied Chemical, Eastman Kodak, Air Reduction, American Woolen, Radio Corporation, Public Service of N J., and International Nickel.

Curb losers included Brown-Forman Distillers, Electric Bond and Share, Textron and Pepperell. Higher were Central and Southwest Utilities. Turnover here was 400,000 shares against 450,000 Tuesday.

United States government prices bounced back in bond trading today after Tuesday's long fall.

With all wartime controls thrown off, the long-term federals jumped as much at one-half point in the over-the-counter market and even more in stock exchange dealings.

Victory loan two and one-halfs closed in the dealer market at around 103½ bid for a net gain of one-half point.

Finishing in the minus column were Central Pacific fives at 104⅞, Erie three and one-eighths at 102⅝, Missouri-Kansas-Texas first fours at ninety-nine and one-eighth, New Orleans Texas and Mexico five and one-halfs at 101½, and Southern Railway conversion fives at 135.

Pennsylvania General fives slumped four and five-eighths to 133. On top were Frisco four and one-halfs at forty-four and three-fourths, Baltimore and Ohio stamped convertibles at seventy-four and three-eighths, Chicago and Alton threes at sixty and one-half, Burlington three and one-eighths at 103½, Chicago and Eastern Illinois incomes at ninety-eight.

Turnover of $6,600,000 compared with $11,960,000.

Sugar Shortage Continues Acute According to OPA

A sugar shortage continues, according to OPA officials, and only ten pounds for canning purposes will be available this year.

The new sugar stamp, Spare stamp No. 49, is good for five pounds starting today. Spare stamp No. 9, has been valid for several weeks and continues to be worth five pounds of sugar. Housewives are urged to keep the stamp so sugar can be obtained for canning purposes when needed this fall. The stamp is good until October 31, it was explained yesterday.

The OPA suggests that one pound of canning sugar be used for each four quarts of fruit. This will be sufficient to adequately preserve the fruit and if used in this manner will help spread the sugar and food supply as far as possible, OPA people claim.

Sugar production in 1945-46 is reported eighteen per cent below what it was before the war, and people in Europe and other war stricken areas are desperately in need of sugar as well as other foods, OPA states.

As in the past, sugar will still be rationed to industrial users, factories and soft drink makers, and to institutions such as hospitals and restaurants, as well as to individual consumers.

LISTEN WORLD

By ELSIE ROBINSON
(Registered U.S. Patent Office)

GROW AN IMAGINATION

I doubt if there's a more necessary or valuable function of the mind than imagination. Most of us are still self centered savages, seeing no farther than our own noses—moved only by our own personal dreams and desires—bound within the narrow limits of our own experiences and possessions. Imagination alone can civilize us—heal our intolerance, make us aware of the other fellow and his world.

Yet how many of us understand the nature of imagination? We confuse it with day dreaming. We "imagine" some get-rich-quick success scheme. Or we "imagine" that we are undiscovered Hollywood stars. But such childish trifling is still only wishful thinking. It has nothing to do with real imagination.

Imagination reaches out from self. It takes us into other lives and other worlds. Imagination sets your whole nature free and, by so doing, enriches and enlarges you. Imagination is the process by which we mature—leave childhood behind us, become men and women.

The self centered, unimaginative person is always a child—a stupid, savage child. He may become famous, own millions, travel the world over—but he is still infantile and empty.

But the ragged, obscure man who has imagination soars away from his rags and is indifferent to his obscurity. He owns the world.

Yet you wonder. Suppose one is born with imagination and one without it. What can be done about it?

Plenty can be done. For no one is born with imagination. We develop our own imaginations as we develop our muscles or talents.

Out of our curiosity, out of our sympathy, out of our interests in outside people and things, out of our natural desire for a larger life, we develop our imaginations.

Imaginations are not inherited. They don't just happen. They do not arrive overnight. They are accumulated slowly, with struggle and sacrifice.

Our imagination is as wide and as deep as our hunger to live. It is not easy to reach out into a larger life or to put ourselves into the other fellow's shoes. It is much easier to huddle within ourselves in the snug circle of our own interests. But in the end, we sicken in that snugness as a plant sickens in a sunless cell.

Break out of that cell!

You have what it takes. There, in your imagination, you have a force that will conquer the world.

Stocks Move Irregularly Lower In Quietest Market in a Month

NEW YORK, May 1—(AP)—Stocks moved irregularly lower today in the quietest market in a month although selected issues responded to favorable earnings or dividend news.

Selling pressure hit liquors following the reduction ordered on use of grains, but a few recovered the day's losses. Steels and some industrials dependent on that metal gave ground reflecting fears of widespread operating shutdowns because of coal shortages. Rails improved, and number of pivotal oils, motors and rubbers were steady.

Total transfers of 980,000 shares were the lowest for a full day since March 28 and compared with 1,000,000 Tuesday. Of 964 issues registering, 409 declined and 312 advanced.

Attaining higher ground were American Telephone, Standard Oil (NJ) (on an extra dividend), Union Carbide, Southern Pacific, Chrysler, American Smelting, United States Rubber, Deere and Company and Montgomery Ward.

Allis Chalmers dropped two and three-eighths to close at $78.37; American Distilling was off three and one-half at $66; Schenley at $78.37 lost two and three-eighths. Others on the offside included Youngstown Sheet, General Motors, Goodyear, Caterpillar Tractor, International Harvester, Douglas Aircraft, Boeing, Kennecott, Allied Chemical, Eastman Kodak, Air Reduction, American Woolen, Radio Corporation, Public Service of N J., and International Nickel.

Curb losers included Brown-Forman Distillers, Electric Bond and Share, Textron and Pepperell. Higher were Central and Southwest Utilities. Turnover here was 400,000 shares against 450,000 Tuesday.

United States government prices bounced back in bond trading today after Tuesday's long fall.

With all wartime controls thrown off, the long-term federals jumped as much at one-half point in the over-the-counter market and even more in stock exchange dealings.

Victory loan two and one-halfs closed in the dealer market at around 103½ bid for a net gain of one-half point.

Finishing in the minus column were Central Pacific fives at 104⅞, Erie three and one-eighths at 102⅝, Missouri-Kansas-Texas first fours at ninety-nine and one-eighth, New Orleans Texas and Mexico five and one-halfs at 101½, and Southern Railway conversion fives at 135.

Pennsylvania General fives slumped four and five-eighths to 133. On top were Frisco four and one-halfs at forty-four and three-fourths, Baltimore and Ohio stamped convertibles at seventy-four and three-eighths, Chicago and Alton threes at sixty and one-half, Burlington three and one-eighths at 103½, Chicago and Eastern Illinois incomes at ninety-eight.

Turnover of $6,600,000 compared with $11,960,000.

Sugar Shortage Continues Acute According to OPA

A sugar shortage continues, according to OPA officials, and only ten pounds for canning purposes will be available this year.

The new sugar stamp, Spare stamp No. 49, is good for five pounds starting today. Spare stamp No. 9, has been valid for several weeks and continues to be worth five pounds of sugar. Housewives are urged to keep the stamp so sugar can be obtained for canning purposes when needed this fall. The stamp is good until October 31, it was explained yesterday.

The OPA suggests that one pound of canning sugar be used for each four quarts of fruit. This will be sufficient to adequately preserve the fruit and if used in this manner will help spread the sugar and food supply as far as possible, OPA people claim.

Sugar production in 1945-46 is reported eighteen per cent below what it was before the war, and people in Europe and other war stricken areas are desperately in need of sugar as well as other foods, OPA states.

As in the past, sugar will still be rationed to industrial users, factories and soft drink makers, and to institutions such as hospitals and restaurants, as well as to individual consumers.

Picture of Year To Be Judged Soon

The picture of the year judging and banquet of the Cumberland Camera Club will be held Monday, May 20, at the Clary club with William Rittase, Philadelphia professional photographer, as the judge and principal speaker.

Rittase, a well known Eastern professional, has judged prints of numerous salons and contests. While judging the prints at the Clary club, he will criticise them orally. Following the judging, Rittase will give a lecture on photography. About fifty-three prints are to be submitted for the contest.

The banquet, scheduled to get under way at 6:30 p. m., is not closed to camera club members but is open to all persons interested in photography.

Reservations must be made by May 10 at Harvey's jewelry store.

The regular monthly meeting of the club will be held Wednesday, May 22, at Knights of Malta hall, Prospect square.

LISTEN WORLD

By ELSIE ROBINSON
(Registered U.S. Patent Office)

GROW AN IMAGINATION

I doubt if there's a more necessary or valuable function of the mind than imagination. Most of us are still self centered savages, seeing no farther than our own noses—moved only by our own personal dreams and desires—bound within the narrow limits of our own experiences and possessions. Imagination alone can civilize us—heal our intolerance, make us aware of the other fellow and his world.

Yet how many of us understand the nature of imagination? We confuse it with day dreaming. We "imagine" some get-rich-quick success scheme. Or we "imagine" that we are undiscovered Hollywood stars. But such childish trifling is still only wishful thinking. It has nothing to do with real imagination.

Imagination reaches out from self. It takes us into other lives and other worlds. Imagination sets your whole nature free and, by so doing, enriches and enlarges you. Imagination is the process by which we mature—leave childhood behind us, become men and women.

The self centered, unimaginative person is always a child—a stupid, savage child. He may become famous, own millions, travel the world over—but he is still infantile and empty.

But the ragged, obscure man who has imagination soars away from his rags and is indifferent to his obscurity. He owns the world.

Yet you wonder. Suppose one is born with imagination and one without it. What can be done about it?

Plenty can be done. For no one is born with imagination. We develop our own imaginations as we develop our muscles or talents.

Out of our curiosity, out of our sympathy, out of our interests in outside people and things, out of our natural desire for a larger life, we develop our imaginations.

Imaginations are not inherited. They don't just happen. They do not arrive overnight. They are accumulated slowly, with struggle and sacrifice.

Our imagination is as wide and as deep as our hunger to live. It is not easy to reach out into a larger life or to put ourselves into the other fellow's shoes. It is much easier to huddle within ourselves in the snug circle of our own interests. But in the end, we sicken in that snugness as a plant sickens in a sunless cell.

Break out of that cell!

You have what it takes. There, in your imagination, you have a force that will conquer the world.

Non-Toxic Urea Is Used To Treat Infected Wounds

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

Doctors are like generals. The more weapons they have at their command, the more varied, precise and thoroughgoing their attack can be and the greater the chance of success.

Thus, news of another healing agent is always good news, particularly where it is one effective against infected wounds, because such infections, once entrenched, are likely to hold on with stubborn tenacity.

Infected Wounds

Urea, a substance formed in the body and eliminated through the kidneys, has been found to have a beneficial effect in the treatment of infected wounds. Non-toxic and apparently non-irritating, it will, of itself, dissolve dead tissue and when used locally with sulfonamides will help control infection.

Recently, Drs. Cecil P. G. Wakeley and George Blum, of England, have found it particularly helpful when combined with iodine. Apparently this combination of drugs stops the growth of germs and these physicians have found it especially useful in infected burns and wounds which do not respond to penicillin or the sulfonamide drugs.

Preparation Used

For six months they used the preparation on 108 cases of injuries, such as fractures, in which the bones had broken through the skin, skin wounds, and burns. All of the patients had been treated with penicillin or the sulfonamide drugs.

In carrying out the treatment the wounds were washed out with hydrogen peroxide and in the cases of fractures any loose portions of bone were removed. The area was then dried with sterile gauze. A liberal amount of the urea-iodine preparation was then placed in the wound.

A dry dressing was applied over this gauze to keep the dressing in place. In the case of fractures, a plaster cast was then put on and left on for three weeks or a month. At the end of this time the wound was re-dressed.

Wounds Healing

It was found that, with this treatment, at the end of three to four weeks little, if any, infection was left, and the wounds were healing rapidly. Regardless of how much of the urea-iodine was put into the wounds there was no reaction. Also, there was a complete lack of pain following this treatment. No interference occurred in the healing of the bone.

In the treatment of burns, the preparation was put on and a bandage applied.

An ointment of the mixture may also be used. The results in all of the cases treated were satisfactory.

Questions and Answers

A. B.: When I begin to feel tired, I start to lose my voice and by evening, I sound like a person with laryngitis.

Answer: It is not clear what is causing this disturbance. It may be due to some disturbance of the larynx or voice box. A careful examination by a physician would be helpful in making a diagnosis.

DeLuca Scores over Hare By 266 Pins in 10 Games

Sammy Hits 257 Maples In Final Game and Has 191.2 Average in $2,000 Match

Establishing what is believed to be a county record for a match contest, Sammy DeLuca averaged 191.2 to defeat Roy "Bunny" Hare, veteran duckpin artist, by the margin of 266 pins in their ten-game match for a purse of $2,000 last night before capacity crowds at the Club Recreation and Diamond alleys.

DeLuca started on the road to victory in the first game on the Club alleys when he gathered 202 pins to Hare's 170 and climaxed his brilliant evening's performance by gathering wood to the tune of 257 maples in the tenth and final game on the Diamond alleys, Virginia avenue.

At the conclusion of the first five games DeLuca held a 66-pin advantage, the totals being 919 to 853. The "Cadillac Champ" started off the fireworks in South End with a 198 to Hare's 137, the lowest score of the evening, and wound up in whirlwind fashion by toppling 200 and 257 sticks in the last two games. DeLuca crashed the 200-circle on three occasions while Hare's best score was 186 in the fourth game. In the final five-game set on the Diamond lanes DeLuca emerged the victor by 200 pins.

Final totals for the match were: DeLuca 1,912; Hare, 1,646.

The match attracted such a large crowd in South End that many persons were turned away for lack of standing room. Temporary bleachers were erected at both establishments to accomodate the crowd.

The victory was the second straight for DeLuca in a big money match since he obtained his discharge from the armed services. It was reported that large sums of money changed hands on the outcome of the match.

The scores:

Game	DeLuca	Hare
First	202	170
Second	180	142
Third	197	183
Fourth	174	186
Fifth	166	172

NEW YORK, May 1 (AP) — Babe Ruth said today he was leaving for Mexico by plane May 15 for a "vacation" at the invitations of President Jorge Pasquel of the Mexican League.

Final details for the trip were completed by Mario Louston, whom Ruth identified as a New York representative of the Mexican baseball leader.

"I will be down there about ten days or two weeks," the Bambino stated. "Am I just going down there to look over the baseball situation? No. It's a vacation. I've never been there before and I thought this was a good chance as long as I'm being invited. As a matter of fact baseball wasn't even mentioned."

Boston Red Sox Trounce Detroit By Score of 13-1

Ferriss Hurls 4-Hitter and Hub Team Cops Sixth in Row

BOSTON, May 1—(AP)—The Red Sox romped to their sixth consecutive victory today, routing the Tigers 13-1 as the world champions displayed probably their most ragged game of the season.

Delta Dave Ferriss gave the Tigers but four hits in winning his second game without a defeat.

The Sox went on two merry-go-rounds, nine men going to the plate in both the first and second innings.

George Metkovich started things off with a running bunt which he beat out for a hit. That hit was the first of four Metkovich made for a perfect day at bat.

Three more hits, including a double by Ted Williams, a walk, and an outfield out gave the Sox four runs to overcome a one run lead the Tigers had at the time. Box:

Long Suspends Moose Manager

Carl Cooke Is Set Down for One Game after Brush with Umps

President John J. Long, of the Interstate Baseball League, yesterday announced the suspension of Carl Cooke, manager of the Loyal Order of Moose team, for his conduct during the opening game of the season last Sunday at Community Park between the Moose and Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion.

In a letter to Cooke, President Long said that a report made by the Interstate League umpire-in-chief on the Moose-Legion game of April 28, indicated:

1. That during the game Cooke, continually left the coaches box, walked toward the umpires, questioning decisions without first calling time.

2. That Cooke refused to leave the playing field and dugout, when ordered to do so by an official umpire.

3. That Cooke defied the umpires to "try and put me off the field."

Long wrote:

"I want to remind you (an umpire yourself for many years) and every manager of the Interstate League that ever true sportsman fights for what is his right and are appreciated for it, but officials of baseball and all sports, and their decisions on the playing field are to be respected at all times. And I know that if an umpire in the Interstate League is proven incompetent our umpire-in-chief will follow proper action.

"Therefore, it is my duty to inform you that because of your conduct of last Sunday, you are penalized in the following manner: 'You are not to be in uniform, nor in the dugout or on the field, nor are you to direct your team (Moose) for the next scheduled game. Furthermore, if it is necessary in the future, more severe disciplinary action will be taken by this league officer."

Keyser Will Stage Bowling Tournament

KEYSER, W. Va., May 1—Keyser city bowling tournament will be held May 23 and 24. This is the first time in several years that such a tournament to determine the top bowlers of the city has been held.

Entries for the tournament are restricted to Keyser bowlers as the league is strictly local. Entries for the men's singles and doubles events must be filed, accompanied with the proper entry fee, with the house manager of Henry's Sport Center, not later than noon, May 10. The entry fee covers the cost of bowling the required games.

Prizes to be awarded in each event will be posted in the Sport Center before the tournament begins. The total pins in the three games will be the deciding factor in all events.

Commodores Lose 3-0

BAINBRIDGE, Md., May 1 (AP)—Bob Chakales, who formerly hurled for Wilmington, Del., in the Interstate league, limited the Bainbridge Commodores to a pair of singles today as his Camp Lee baseball aggregation chalked up a 3-0 victory.

The 18-year-old righthander walked only two batters and, with perfect support from his teammates, held the locals at bay throughout.

Brooklyn Shells Chicago Hurlers For 5-1 Victory

Triumph Puts Dodgers in Tie for First Place with Cards

CHICAGO, May 1 (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers broke out with a rash of base hits that shelled three Chicago pitchers off the mound while their own Hal Gregg was rationing the Cubs sparingly today to take a 5 to 1 victory and even the current series at a game each.

The victory put the Dodgers in a tie for first place with the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Dodgers, who got seven hits yesterday as they dropped a 2-1 eleven-inning decision to the Cubs, smashed out 15 today, including three doubles.

Gregg gave a somewhat chilled crowd of 10,926 a smart exhibition, allowing six singles and no passes.

The tall flinger, who turned in his second victory of the season against one defeat, would have had a shutout but for an error by Augie Galan in the eighth. Galan juggled the throw on Pinch-hitter Heinz Becker's infield grounder. Bob Sturgeon ran for Becker, went to second on Stan Hack's single and scored on Don Johnson's single to center. Box:

MARYLAND'S RACING REVENUE WILL EXCEED FOUR MILLION

Tax Yield Is Estimated on $23,489,000 Bet at Two Milers

BALTIMORE, May 1 (AP) — The state will receive about $4,500,000 this year in tax revenue from Maryland race tracks, an estimate today by Deputy Comptroller Joseph O'C. McCusker indicated.

The largest previous tax yield from the tracks was $2,587,915, for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1945.

Record sums were bet this year at both Bowie and Havre de Grace—the two spring meets already concluded. Total wagering at the two tracks amounted to $23,489,000. The tax yield estimate was based on these records, which are expected to be duplicated at subsequent meets.

From April, 1933, to August, 1939, the tax on betting was only one per cent. Since 1939, however, the tax has been two per cent.

The state began to take the odd-penny "breakage" last spring after such action was authorized by the 1945 legislature.

McCusker estimated the state's total yield from Bowie would be $376,266, and from Havre de Grace, $410,097. The total from both thus would be $786,363.

Pimlico has just opened its spring meet and has a fall meeting scheduled, as do Laurel and Bowie. Havre de Grace has the second half of its spring meeting coming up the latter part of this month.

DeLuca Scores over Hare By 266 Pins in 10 Games

Sammy Hits 257 Maples In Final Game and Has 191.2 Average in $2,000 Match

Establishing what is believed to be a county record for a match contest, Sammy DeLuca averaged 191.2 to defeat Roy "Bunny" Hare, veteran duckpin artist, by the margin of 266 pins in their ten-game match for a purse of $2,000 last night before capacity crowds at the Club Recreation and Diamond alleys.

DeLuca started on the road to victory in the first game on the Club alleys when he gathered 202 pins to Hare's 170 and climaxed his brilliant evening's performance by gathering wood to the tune of 257 maples in the tenth and final game on the Diamond alleys, Virginia avenue.

At the conclusion of the first five games DeLuca held a 66-pin advantage, the totals being 919 to 853. The "Cadillac Champ" started off the fireworks in South End with a 198 to Hare's 137, the lowest score of the evening, and wound up in whirlwind fashion by toppling 200 and 257 sticks in the last two games. DeLuca crashed the 200-circle on three occasions while Hare's best score was 186 in the fourth game. In the final five-game set on the Diamond lanes DeLuca emerged the victor by 200 pins.

Final totals for the match were: DeLuca 1,912; Hare, 1,646.

The match attracted such a large crowd in South End that many persons were turned away for lack of standing room. Temporary bleachers were erected at both establishments to accomodate the crowd.

The victory was the second straight for DeLuca in a big money match since he obtained his discharge from the armed services. It was reported that large sums of money changed hands on the outcome of the match.

The scores:

Boston Red Sox Trounce Detroit By Score of 13-1

Ferriss Hurls 4-Hitter and Hub Team Cops Sixth in Row

BOSTON, May 1—(AP)—The Red Sox romped to their sixth consecutive victory today, routing the Tigers 13-1 as the world champions displayed probably their most ragged game of the season.

Delta Dave Ferriss gave the Tigers but four hits in winning his second game without a defeat.

The Sox went on two merry-go-rounds, nine men going to the plate in both the first and second innings.

George Metkovich started things off with a running bunt which he beat out for a hit. That hit was the first of four Metkovich made for a perfect day at bat.

Three more hits, including a double by Ted Williams, a walk, and an outfield out gave the Sox four runs to overcome a one run lead the Tigers had at the time. Box:

Long Suspends Moose Manager

Carl Cooke Is Set Down for One Game after Brush with Umps

President John J. Long, of the Interstate Baseball League, yesterday announced the suspension of Carl Cooke, manager of the Loyal Order of Moose team, for his conduct during the opening game of the season last Sunday at Community Park between the Moose and Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion.

In a letter to Cooke, President Long said that a report made by the Interstate League umpire-in-chief on the Moose-Legion game of April 28, indicated:

1. That during the game Cooke, continually left the coaches box, walked toward the umpires, questioning decisions without first calling time.

2. That Cooke refused to leave the playing field and dugout, when ordered to do so by an official umpire.

3. That Cooke defied the umpires to "try and put me off the field."

Long wrote:

"I want to remind you (an umpire yourself for many years) and every manager of the Interstate League that ever true sportsman fights for what is his right and are appreciated for it, but officials of baseball and all sports, and their decisions on the playing field are to be respected at all times. And I know that if an umpire in the Interstate League is proven incompetent our umpire-in-chief will follow proper action.

"Therefore, it is my duty to inform you that because of your conduct of last Sunday, you are penalized in the following manner: 'You are not to be in uniform, nor in the dugout or on the field, nor are you to direct your team (Moose) for the next scheduled game. Furthermore, if it is necessary in the future, more severe disciplinary action will be taken by this league officer."

Keyser Will Stage Bowling Tournament

KEYSER, W. Va., May 1—Keyser city bowling tournament will be held May 23 and 24. This is the first time in several years that such a tournament to determine the top bowlers of the city has been held.

Entries for the tournament are restricted to Keyser bowlers as the league is strictly local. Entries for the men's singles and doubles events must be filed, accompanied with the proper entry fee, with the house manager of Henry's Sport Center, not later than noon, May 10. The entry fee covers the cost of bowling the required games.

Prizes to be awarded in each event will be posted in the Sport Center before the tournament begins. The total pins in the three games will be the deciding factor in all events.

Commodores Lose 3-0

BAINBRIDGE, Md., May 1 (AP)—Bob Chakales, who formerly hurled for Wilmington, Del., in the Interstate league, limited the Bainbridge Commodores to a pair of singles today as his Camp Lee baseball aggregation chalked up a 3-0 victory.

The 18-year-old righthander walked only two batters and, with perfect support from his teammates, held the locals at bay throughout.

Brooklyn Shells Chicago Hurlers For 5-1 Victory

Triumph Puts Dodgers in Tie for First Place with Cards

CHICAGO, May 1 (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers broke out with a rash of base hits that shelled three Chicago pitchers off the mound while their own Hal Gregg was rationing the Cubs sparingly today to take a 5 to 1 victory and even the current series at a game each.

The victory put the Dodgers in a tie for first place with the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Dodgers, who got seven hits yesterday as they dropped a 2-1 eleven-inning decision to the Cubs, smashed out 15 today, including three doubles.

Gregg gave a somewhat chilled crowd of 10,926 a smart exhibition, allowing six singles and no passes.

The tall flinger, who turned in his second victory of the season against one defeat, would have had a shutout but for an error by Augie Galan in the eighth. Galan juggled the throw on Pinch-hitter Heinz Becker's infield grounder. Bob Sturgeon ran for Becker, went to second on Stan Hack's single and scored on Don Johnson's single to center. Box:

BALTIMORE, May 1 (AP) — The state will receive about $4,500,000 this year in tax revenue from Maryland race tracks, an estimate today by Deputy Comptroller Joseph O'C. McCusker indicated.

The largest previous tax yield from the tracks was $2,587,915, for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1945.

Record sums were bet this year at both Bowie and Havre de Grace—the two spring meets already concluded. Total wagering at the two tracks amounted to $23,489,000. The tax yield estimate was based on these records, which are expected to be duplicated at subsequent meets.

From April, 1933, to August, 1939, the tax on betting was only one per cent. Since 1939, however, the tax has been two per cent.

The state began to take the odd-penny "breakage" last spring after such action was authorized by the 1945 legislature.

McCusker estimated the state's total yield from Bowie would be $376,266, and from Havre de Grace, $410,097. The total from both thus would be $786,363.

Pimlico has just opened its spring meet and has a fall meeting scheduled, as do Laurel and Bowie. Havre de Grace has the second half of its spring meeting coming up the latter part of this month.

HYNDMAN, Pa., May 1—Hyndman high school swamped Paw Paw high school's baseball team in a Tri-State Conference game here today by the score of 30 to 3. It was the fourth successive league defeat for the West Virginians and their second crushing setback in as many days. Allegany high defeated Paw Paw in Cumberland yesterday by the score of 31-0.

Today's one-sided affair was marked by Hyndman's 15-run outburst in the first inning when 20 players went to bat and six and seven-run rallies in the third and sixth frames.

Jack Shaffer went the route for the winners, yielding four hits while his strikeout victims totaled seven. Coach McVicker's team gathered eighteen hits, including homers by Manges in the second and Bryant in the sixth. The latter's four-ply wallop came with the bases loaded. Manges paced the attack with four hits. Box:

Kentucky Derby Field Is Reduced To 16 Starters

In Earnest Is Scratched; Muddy Track May Eliminate Others

By SID FEDER

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 1—(AP)—Pint sized In Earnest, a horse the blue grass liked best, was taken out of Saturday's Kentucky Derby today, and unless the chocolate pudding goo soon disappears from the derby race track, there will be even more scratches from the run for the roses.

Owner Warren Wright, the Chicago baking powder man, and Trainer Ben Jones, the Missouri magician of the race track, went into a huddle late today and decided to withdraw the tiny speedster, who can make it so tough for the big fellows when he's right that the smart-money winter books had him up among the top half dozen glamour boys in the run for the roses.

They eliminated him because of his disappointing seventh in yesterday's Derby trial which indicated to Plain Ben's sharp eye the little giant-killer had "tailed off," or passed his peak in training.

This left just sixteen surviving steppers still more or less sure of being on hand for the big heat, unless you count an ambling animal named Kendor, whose latest loping was a neat, but not gaudy, last place finish in the Blue Grass Stakes last week.

Owned by Mrs. Denzil Hollingsworth of Lexington, Ky., he became a possible seventeenth starter today when it was learned his stable was looking for a jockey to ride him.

Not even all the sixteen have their tickets yet. In fact, Trainer Art Brent said flatly his hope, the Canadian owned Wee Admiral, would not go to the post if it comes up mud. And, with the weather man pleasantly predicting off-and-on showers most of the rest of the week, it seemed likely the Churchill Downs strip still would be a large bown of mush on Derby day.

"The horse is losing weight," Jones explained, "and tailing off and he's not up to a rough mile and a quarter run like the derby."

The definite decision eliminated Plain Ben's chances of saddling his Fourth Derby winner.

Kentucky Derby Field Is Reduced To 16 Starters

In Earnest Is Scratched; Muddy Track May Eliminate Others

By SID FEDER

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 1—(AP)—Pint sized In Earnest, a horse the blue grass liked best, was taken out of Saturday's Kentucky Derby today, and unless the chocolate pudding goo soon disappears from the derby race track, there will be even more scratches from the run for the roses.

Owner Warren Wright, the Chicago baking powder man, and Trainer Ben Jones, the Missouri magician of the race track, went into a huddle late today and decided to withdraw the tiny speedster, who can make it so tough for the big fellows when he's right that the smart-money winter books had him up among the top half dozen glamour boys in the run for the roses.

They eliminated him because of his disappointing seventh in yesterday's Derby trial which indicated to Plain Ben's sharp eye the little giant-killer had "tailed off," or passed his peak in training.

This left just sixteen surviving steppers still more or less sure of being on hand for the big heat, unless you count an ambling animal named Kendor, whose latest loping was a neat, but not gaudy, last place finish in the Blue Grass Stakes last week.

Owned by Mrs. Denzil Hollingsworth of Lexington, Ky., he became a possible seventeenth starter today when it was learned his stable was looking for a jockey to ride him.

Not even all the sixteen have their tickets yet. In fact, Trainer Art Brent said flatly his hope, the Canadian owned Wee Admiral, would not go to the post if it comes up mud. And, with the weather man pleasantly predicting off-and-on showers most of the rest of the week, it seemed likely the Churchill Downs strip still would be a large bown of mush on Derby day.

"The horse is losing weight," Jones explained, "and tailing off and he's not up to a rough mile and a quarter run like the derby."

The definite decision eliminated Plain Ben's chances of saddling his Fourth Derby winner.

Double Program Event Is Booked On Radio Chain

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, May 1 (AP)—A combination comes to the radio Thursday night, that is the Burns and Allen and the Dinah Shore shows of NBC are going to broadcast to[illegible] at 7, to make an hour in which Charles Boyer will be a guest o[illegible] both. However, Dinah herself won't be there as she has not yet fully recovered from laryngitis. Frances Langford has been picked to take her place.

The Kentucky derby is getting closer, so there will be another preview on CBS at 4:15 as handled by Ted Husing and Jimmy Dolan from Churchill Downs.

World famine and what the individual can do toward preventing it will be up for discussion in America's Town Meeting of ABC at 8:30. Heading the panel of speakers will be F. H. LaGuardia, UNRRA chief.

Andre Kostelanetz is to be host and Lanny Ross the guest when some more of Andre's music goes out on the CBS network at 8. . . . The "Carrington Playhouse" of MBS at 7 is putting on "Elmer and the Wise Guys," described as a comery. . . . More acting comes from Joseph Cotton on CBS at 7 when he plays "Crime without Passion" for the "Suspense Mystery."

Bing Crosby, scheduled back in his NBC at 8 after a week's absence, has billed Peggy Lee to do the guesting in the blues song department. Bing has only another broadcast before it is time for him to sign off in completing his contract arrangement.

Mrs. Wendell Willkie is to be guest speaker for "Hobby Lobby" of CBS at 8:30, to discuss the cancer drive.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION
Mary B. Wininger, Plaintiff, Vs. Joseph Alfred Wininger, Defendant.
No. 19234 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Allegany County.
The object of this suit is the procuring by the plaintiff of a decree of divorce A VINCULO MATRIMONII, and the permanent custody of the two minor children born to the parties, who, as the bill of complaint states, were married in the city of Cumberland on July 3rd, 1937, and resided therein together until on or about August 9th, 1944, when, without just cause or reason, the defendant deserted the plaintiff, and the separation between them has been continued and uninterrupted for at least eighteen months last past, is deliberate and final, and without any reasonable hope or expectation of a reconciliation; that the plaintiff resides in Allegany county, Md., and that the defendant is a non-resident of the state of Maryland, and now resides in the state of Pennsylvania.
It is thereupon ordered this 30th day of April, 1946, by the Circuit Court for Allegany county, Md., in equity, that the plaintiff, by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Allegany county, once in each of four successive weeks before the 1st. day of June, 1946, give notice to said absent defendant of the object and substance of said bill of complaint, and warning him to be and appear in this Court, in person, or by solicitor, on or before the 17th day of June, 1946, and show cause, if any he may have, why a decree should not be passed as prayed.

Jaycees To Hold State Convention In Hagerstown

Announcement Is Made Here by C. William Gilchrist, State President

The Maryland Junior Chamber of Commerce annual convention will be held in Hagerstown May 25 and 26, with headquarters in the Hotel Alexander, C. William Gilchrist, state president, said last night at a meeting of the board of directors of the local association.

Gilchrist said several members from this city will attend, and some will compete in a golf tournament scheduled as part of Saturday's entertainment. A business session is scheduled for Saturday afternoon, with entertainment Saturday night, followed by a business session Sunday morning. State officers will be elected at noon Sunday.

The directors of the Cumberland association held their first official session last night in the Liberty Trust building, with David Kauffman presiding.

Applications Accepted

Several matters of policy were discussed and applications of twelve new members were accepted.

The local association will request the state convention for permission to be host to a state elimination tournament for the National Junior Amateur Golf Tournament to be held at Spokane, Wash., August 5-10. Four representatives will be selected who have not reached their eighteenth birthday by August 5. If the elimination can be held here, it will be played over the Cumberland Country Club course, with thirty-six holes of medal play, at a date to be selected by the convention and local representatives.

Kauffman said last night that committees will be announced shortly for membership, program, legislative, forum, publicity, athletic, aviation, governmental affairs, veterans and finance. C. Van Roby, first vice president, will supervise all special committees, and Kenneth Hopwood, second vice-president, will be in charge of all standing committees.

Pamphlet Is Planned

Plans were also made to publish a descriptive pamphlet of the history of the local organization, showing its accomlishments and projects, current and future, to acquaint the new members and the public with activities of the organization.

Since the age limit of the organization is 36, the directors decided that members who have reached this age and desire to remain active will be invited to become advisory members of the organization. One of these advisory members will be invited to serve on each standing committee.

Two resolutions were passed by the board. One of the documents approves the adoption of daylight saving time here, and will be forwarded to the mayor and city council. The other will be sent to representatives in Congress, and favors a "pay-as-you-go" plan of government spending and a balanced federal budget as recommended by the Maryland Expenditure Council.

It was decided by the board that regular directors' meetings will be held the first Tuesday of each month at 8 p. m.

CELANESE AND UNION WILL RESUME WAGE TALKS TOMORROW

A wage negotiation session between Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, and the Celanese Corporation of America, planned yesterday afternoon, was postponed and a company official said the session will be held tomorrow afternoon at the Celanese plant.

The company has made no new offer since the union last week rejected a company offer of a five per cent increase which union officials said did not include employes of the warp knitting, dyehouse and cafeteria departments.

The TWUA union has called special membership meetings next Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. and Thursday at 10 a. m., according to a notice posted in the union hall by William Boyd Coleman, president.

The agenda includes a report by the negotiating committee on wage discussions at the Celanese plant; action taken by a recent meeting "calling for a strike vote will be discussed and acted upon, and a report on the TWUA convention held in Atlantic City last week will be presented.

At meetings held April 17 and 18, the local rejected a wage increase offer and authorized that, upon recommendation of the negotiation committee, the executive committee is authorized to arrange for a meeting to take a strike vote.

BAKERY AND BREWERY WORKERS NEGOTIATE FOR WAGE INCREASE

Although working agreements with Cumberland bakeries and breweries have expired, officials of Local 246, Bakery and Confectionery Workers Union, AFL, and United Brewery Workers of America said contract negotiations are continuing and declared untruthful rumors of impending strikes.

Howard M. Dixon, secretary of Local 246, Bakery Workers, said the local's contract with four local bakeries expired yesterday but added that negotiations are being continued and that the public will be advised in plenty of time if a stoppage is ordered.

The union official said a wage demand is the major demand but did not indicate the amount of increase asked for the seventy-five workers.

Orville L. Young, president of the Brewery Workers local representing about 225 workers of the Queen City and Cumberland breweries, said the union's contract expired Tuesday but that work is continuing under an agreement which would make all increases retroactive.

Brewery workers are asking an eighteen and one-half cents hourly increase. Union and company officials will meet next Tuesday for further consideration of the union demands.

ATTEND PRESS TOURNEY—The four members of the Alcohi Mirror staff at Allegany high school, shown above, will be in Philadelphia today where they will participate in the second annual Temple Press Tournament at Temple university. They are (seated) Welch Hardman, co-sports editor; (standing, left to right) Herman Myers, feature writer; Ted Anderson, columnist, and Thomas Jamison, sports reporter. The boys left yesterday afternoon by train for Philadelphia and will return home tonight. Representatives of thirty-three high schools will participate in the tourney. Hardman will compete in editorial writing; Anderson in news writing; Myers in copyreading and Jamison in sports. Larry Newman, International News Service correspondent will speak at the luncheon; Paul Frehm, cartoonist of King Features Syndicate Service will give a chalk talk, and Bert Bell, commissioner of the National Professional Football League, is the sports personality to be interviewed. During the day a clinic will be held with the students and faculty members to discuss the problems of publishing high school newspapers.

Banquet, Dance Planned by Hi-Y Council May 13

At least 250 persons are expected to attend the second annual banquet and dance of the Hi-Y council of Central YMCA, to be held Monday, May 13, beginning at 6:30 p. m. in the "Y" gymnasium, Oscar I. Bergstrom, associate general YMCA secretary, announced yesterday.

John T. Fey, local attorney who served in the Pacific theater as a marine corps officer in World War II, will preside and act as toastmaster. Fey was a member of the Hi-Y organization while attending Allegany high school.

Moser To Speak

The principal speaker of the evening will be Clarence G. Moser, one of the associate secretaries of the Central Atlantic area council of the YMCA, with headquarters in Newark, N. J. His topic will be "Hi-Y's in the World."

Juror Fails To Return For Trial after Lunch

A civil appeal case got underway yesterday morning in circuit court with the usual number of jurors—twelve.

As court resumed in the afternoon after recessing for lunch, eleven of the jurors returned and were accounted for. The twelfth was unaccounted for. Court attaches presumed the juror either became ill or misunderstood instructions of the court.

However, hearing of the case continued after attorneys for both parties agreed to proceed with eleven jurors on the panel.

Court attaches said the missing juror was J. C. Albright, Ellerslie.

Accident Totally Disabled Woman, Jury Decides

A circuit court jury yesterday afternoon decided that Mrs. Virginia W. Frantz suffered total and permanent disability as a result of an accident in October 1944 while she was an employe at the Luke plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company.

The case was an appeal filed by Mrs. Frantz, through her attorney, Edward J. Ryan, from a decision of the commission which allowed her fifty per cent disability.

Chief Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judge Walter C. Capper presided at the lengthy hearing at which Mrs. Frantz, who had to be assisted to the witness stand, testified that she is still wearing a corset with steel braces as a result of injuries to her back.

Tried To Dance

Horace P. Whitworth, attorney for the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, asked Mrs. Frantz if she was able to dance, and she replied, "No, I tried to dance, but I couldn't" because of her back injuries.

She also testified that a physician advised her to try light work at the plant but no employment of that type was available, according to plant officials.

Asking an injunction against their next door neighbors, Carlos P. Logsdon and his wife, Mrs. Pauline M. Logsdon, 115 North Allegany street, a petition was filed in court yesterday by James M. Reed, Edward C and Anna R. Reed.

Claim Property Damage

The petitioners, represented by Estel C. Kelley, contend that the roof of the rear porch on the Logsdon home extends under the roof of the porch of their home, and that rain and snow from the Logsdon porch roof causes considerable damage to their property.

Associate Judge Walter C. Capper signed an order for Mr. and Mrs. Logsdan to show cause before May 20 why the injunction should not be issued and the porch roof changed.

Dance Is Planned At AFL Convention

Final plans for the 1946 convention of the Maryland and District of Columbia Federation of Labor to be held here May 13 to 16 were completed last evening at a meeting of the local committee on arrangements, according to C. E. Stutzman, local chairman.

Robert J. Buxbaum, Baltimore, president, and Frank J. Coleman, Washington, secretary-treasurer of the state council, met with the local committee.

Stutzman said the chief difficulty faced by the committee is housing and added it might be necessary to send some delegates to Bedford, Pa., and Keyser, W. Va., and other communities near here.

Plans were formulated to hold a dance here Tuesday, May 14, in honor of the more than 400 delegates expected to attend the affair.

The committee is still counting on the presence of William Green, AFL president, at the convention, the labor official said.

James C. Shriver Resigns Position As Postmaster

Resignation, Due to Failing Health, Is Effective June 30

James C. Shriver, postmaster at Cumberland since August 1, 1935, last night announced his resignation, effective at the close of business June 30, because of failing health.

Shriver submitted his resignation April 15 in a letter to Jesse M. Donaldson, first assistant postmaster general, pointing out that his health had been failing in the past several months and that he expects to be on sick leave much of the time between April 15 and June 30.

In 1935, Shriver was unanimously recommended by the Democratic State Central Committee of Allegany for appointment as postmaster here. That recommendation was followed by a recommendation of then Rep. David J. Lewis and Shriver's name was sent to the Senate for confirmation after the appointment was made by President Franklin D. Roosevelt. The appointment expired in 1940 but his commission was extended at that time.

Vang Company Official

Prior to becoming postmaster, Shriver was secretary-treasurer of the Vang Construction Company which was actively engaged in construction work in Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Kentucky and Delaware, doing some $35,203,858 worth of business.

He held that position from November 1916 to July 11, 1934, when he was appointed receiver, with F. C. Shroeder, for the company by the United States Court for the district of Western Pennsylvania.

Shriver has been active in Democratic politics in Cumberland and Allegany county for many years. He was chairman and a member of the Democratic State Central Committee of Allegany County for a number of years and also served as chairman of the old Democratic city committee before the present form of government was established in Cumberland in 1910.

By profession, Shriver is a civil engineer, having received a degree in civil engineering from Lehigh university in 1892. Two years later he formed a partnership with Lawrence L. Beall in Cumberland to engage in civil and mining engineering.

Shriver twice was appointed city engineer of Cumberland, and designed the city's sewerage system. At one time he was resident engineer of the Evitt's Creek Water supply for the city.

Committee Will Be Advised

As a result of Shriver's resignation, the Democratic State Central Committee of Allegany County will be advised of the impending vacancy. The committee will be asked either to recommend a temporary postmaster or to await a list of eligibles from which the recommendation for the appointment will be made.

Applicants for the position must be between the ages of 30 and 62.

Back Shops, Bolt And Forge Reopen

The back shops and bolt and forge shops of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad here resumed operations yesterday morning after a ten-day suspension of operations, according to H. F. Wyatt, division superintendent.

Almost 1,000 men have been furloughed on the Cumberland division, according to Wyatt. He added that 412 men returned to the backshops, but that sixty-two of them will be furloughed indefinitely and that ten of the 339 men returning to the bolt and forge plant also will be furloughed indefinitely.

The Cumberland division has 400 men in the transportation department furloughed and of this number fifty-five are located in Cumberland. Three hundred men are furloughed in the motive power department and 240 have been furloughed in the car department. A total of 126 Cumberlanders were furloughed from the motive department and fifty-four from the car department.

Eighty-five locomotives are out of service on the Cumberland division, most of them being laid up here.

Brewers Adopt Program To Boost Supply of Beer to Marylanders

BALTIMORE, May 1 (AP) — State Comptroller J. Millard Tawes announced today that as the result of a meeting at his office with representatives of seven Maryland brewing companies, a program had been worked out which would "appreciably increase the supply of beer to Maryland consumers."

He said the brewers had agreed on an eight-point program, calling for:

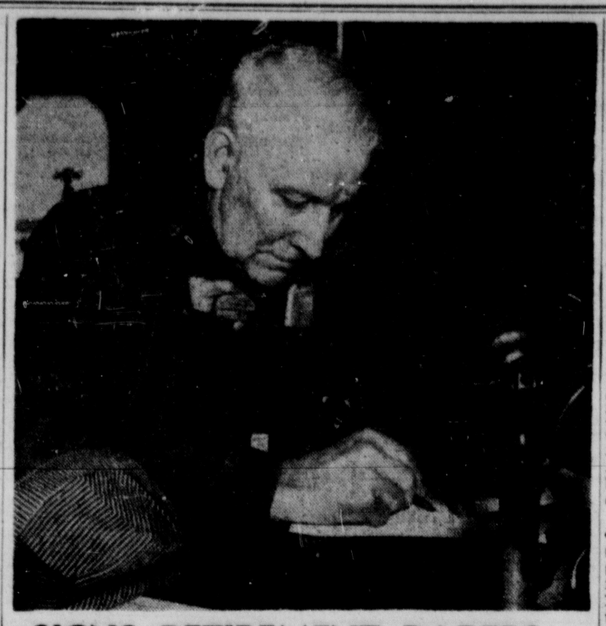
1. The addition of no new customers from outside the state.
2. Reduction of sales to out-of-state customers by the same ratio as those of Maryland customers.
3. Inauguration of a survey of out-of-state shipments to prevent deliveries to black market operators.
4. Use of the survey to determine where out-of-state shipments may be cut to offset the reduction of shipments into the state by outside dealers.
5. Exercise of measures to assure the consumption of all beer sold in Maryland by Maryland consumers.
6. A definite plan of equalized, fair, and orderly distribution.
7. Emphasis to distributors on the necessity for following the program as it applies to them.
8. Encouragement of orderly distribution and discouragement of black market operations among retail customers.

Tawes said he had not issued any regulations regarding export of beer, as he was authorized to do under the law. He added he did not believe any such regulation would become necessary.

"Maryland is committd to the policy of encouraging the use of beer and light wines," he said, "and we want to avoid any situation that would tend to encourage substitution of the use of hard liquors for beer.

"In this crisis every effort must be exerted to do everything possible to give Maryland beer consumers a fair deal."

F. Brooke Whiting, representing the Queen City Brewing Company and G. William Bibby, the Cumberland Brewing Company attended the meeting.



SIGNS RETIREMENT PAPERS—Engineer Ira A. Bittner, formerly of Cumberland, is pictured above as he signed his retirement papers at Queen City station Tuesday night a few minutes before starting his last run. Bittner, engineer on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad's crack Ambassador passenger train, completed his last run at 12:51 a. m., yesterday when he brought the Ambassador to a halt in Pittsburgh. He railroaded forty-nine years, three as a fireman and forty-six as an engineer, and thinks Diesel engines are "far superior to steam engines." (See story).

Baltimore and Ohio Engineer Retires After 49 Years of Railroading

Ira A. Bittner Makes Last Trip at Helm of Crack Ambassador

By AUGUST T. BRUST, Jr.

Engineer Ira A. Bittner walked down the steps under the Queen City station Tuesday night, entered the car foreman's office and observed that he didn't "know what I'll be doing tomorrow night."

Then he took off his cap, exposing neatly trimmed gray hair, and started signing a sheaf of papers handed to him by W. G. Schell, assistant road foreman of engines on the east end of the Pittsburgh division of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad.

Bittner was signing his retirement papers after railroading since June 23, 1897, the first three years as a fireman and the last forty-six as an engineer.

A few minutes before 9 p. m. Bittner walked up to the big Diesel engine hauling the westbound crack Ambassador passenger train of the B. and O. and swung aboard. At 9:03 p. m., he eased the train out of the station for Pittsburgh. Less than four hours later he had completed his last run.

Formula for Success

Before Bittner left Cumberland for his last trip, he told a reporter that all engineers, to be successful, should comply with the rules "and keep sober. That's about the shortest answer I can give you."

He said he experienced several minor accidents in his career, but added that it "is impossible to advoid them sometimes even if you do know all the rules."

Bittner said he had many interesting experiences in his career but that he can't recall many of them offhand. "When I'm done with a day's work, I forget about it. I don't bother about it the next day," he said.

"Some fellows, when they see a road foreman, say they're gettin' hell. Not me, I never took it that way," Bittner stated, recalling one occasion when a road foreman of engines approached him.

"'Son, I got a report about you handling a 'train rough,'" Bittner said the road foreman told him. "He called me son but I was a great deal older than he.

"The fellow that reported to you didn't report to me, I told him. You may as well throw your report away because you've got all the information you're going to get."

Tied Up at Sand Patch

Another occasion that Bittner recalls is the 1936 flood.

"I got tied up at Sand Patch from Tuesday evening to Thursday morning because of the flood," he said. "Couldn't go either way. The B. and O. fed us out of No. 16's dining car. He was tied up there too.

"The passengers took it all right when they learned what the trouble was, and some of them made arrangements to get to Meyersdale by automobile."

Bittner, who was exactly 70½ years old on Tuesday, said he hasn't laid many plans for the future although he does not intend to leave Pittsburgh until the housing shortage "eases up."

"All I ever did was work," he pointed out. "I like to hunt and fish a lot but haven't done it since I was a boy. If I live long enough I might get back to it.

"I've been kidding the missus about an empty house at Fairhope that's right along a trout stream."

Children Make Trip

While Bittner seemed to be taking his resignation in stride, it was quite an occasion for his children. Members of the family, boys, girls and grandchildren, from Pittsburgh, Detroit, Philadelphia and Cumberland, were here Tuesday night to help the engineer get started on his last run.

They rode the Ambassador to Pittsburgh where the rest of the family greeted Bittner when he pulled in.

A former resident of Cumberland, Bittner left here ten years ago, but railroading has brought him back to this city almost daily since.

Paper Collected in Drive

Naval Officer Completes Survey For Reserve Unit

Commander Richard D. White, of Norfolk, Va., culminated a two-day visit and survey here last night with an address to the Cumberland Council Navy League at a meeting in the city hall auditorium.

Commander White came here to make preliminary local plans for the establishment of a naval reserve unit in Cumberland, comprised of 200 men and thirteen officers.

Yesterday and the day before, White conferred with a number of local navy reserve officers including William H. Geppart, W. Earle Cobey and others. He also talked with Mayor Thomas S. Post, Commissioner of Streets and Public Property Myers G. Light and City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer, regarding housing for the reserve unit.

The commander explained that an armory must be leased, rented or constructed here, to serve as a training center and headquarters for the unit, and space of 200 feet by 125 feet is desired.

Several Sites Considered

Yesterday he made an inspection of the Merchandise Mart, the former Footer Dye Works plant, and said last night that there is sufficient space available there, if the building is strong enough in the floors to hold heavy training equipment. Several other sites are also being considered, he explained.

During the day he also conferred with David I. Kauffman, president of the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce and called at the offices of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce where he obtained information relative to industries, population and other facts regarding the community.

At the Navy league meeting last night, Commander White explained that the naval reserve unit to be formed here will be one of twenty-eight units in the Fifth Naval District which embraces Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and a part of North Carolina. Thirteen divisions will be formed in Maryland with twelve in Baltimore and one here.

The local division is to be based upon training of fifty ship's carpenters, fifty water tenders, fifty ship fitters and fifty machinists mates, plus thirteen officers. He explained that the reserve will meet for study, drill and training one night each week.

Explains New Setup

Navy veterans of World War II will be given first consideration for enlistment in the reserve ,and young men with no service will also be eligible.

Men who join will be paid upon the basis of one day's pay for each weekly drill and two weeks pay for the summer cruise, which is a part of the program. This is equivalent to about two months of base pay at regular navy rates each year, the commander explained, and means that much additional payroll to the city.

The new navy reserve should not be confused with the prewar reserve, Commander White told his audience. In the old setup, he explained, when the reserve units number seventy men instead of the proposed 200 now, men spent much time drilling and marching. The new reserve, he stated will spend most of its time studying and learning trades and skills. The reserve is more of a trade school than anything else, he declared, and the best instructors obtainable will be sent here to conduct classes.

Advising young men who can, to "stick to the farm", Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools addressed the third annual meeting of Allegany County Future Farmers of America, last night, following their banquet at St. Luke's Lutheran church, Columbia street.

"Soil is basic," Kopp told his audience. "The farmers today have a great opportunity and are giving the greatest service possible to community, state, nation and the world. It is the farmer who must feed the people in the cities and who is now called upon to feed the people of many starving, war-swept countries".

"There is a satisfaction in tilling the soil," Kopp continued. "Most people who think about it, often say, 'someday I'd like to have a farm', and this is true", he continued, "of more people than one might think". Kopp said he has often wished that he could be classed as a Maryland farmer, and hopes that someday he may have a farm of his own.

Is Welcome Atmosphere

"There is an equal satisfaction in living in the wholesome atmosphere found on the farm", the speaker declared. "You never hear of any farmer boys getting into serious trouble. You never hear of this thing called juvenile delinquency among farming people. And it's because farmers live in a wholesome atmosphere, without the distractions of city life. They live lives of service, with full knowledge of the importance of farming and of their responsibility. Stick to the farm", he concluded.

The banquet was attended by about 125 members, parents and friends of the Future Farmers. Perry Shryock of Oldtown, president of both the Allegany County Future Farmers and State of Maryland Future Farmers, presided as toastmaster. Guests were introduced by James House, county advisor to the Future Farmers of Allegany County.

Awards were presented to Osborne Ayers, Mt. Pleasant; Fred Keister, Centerville, and Harold Morris, Flintstone. Ayers was awarded a second prize for general farming and a year's membership in the County Farm Bureau Association; Keister was awarded a second state prize for his competition in a corn project; and Morris was also awarded a year's membership in the Farm Bureau.

Entertainment included several musical groups from Fort Hill high school. An instrumental trio composed of Miss Dona Zembower, (marimba), Royce Hendrickson, (accordian) and John Miller, (electric guitar), offered several selections. The Ambrose brothers played two coronet duets, and the Robeson sisters, Ina Lee and Anna Ruth Robeson sang several numbers.

Motion pictures on agricultural subjects were shown and there was also a program of group singing.

Ladies of the church, assisted by Mrs. Marshall Twigg prepared and served the dinner. The church pastor, the Rev. H. Hall Sharp, gave the invocation.

Since the age limit of the organization is 36, the directors decided that members who have reached this age and desire to remain active will be invited to become advisory members of the organization. One of these advisory members will be invited to serve on each standing committee.

Two resolutions were passed by the board. One of the documents approves the adoption of daylight saving time here, and will be forwarded to the mayor and city council. "There is a satisfaction in tilling the soil," Kopp continued. "Most people who think about it, often say, 'someday I'd like to have a farm', and this is true", he continued, "of more people than one might think". Kopp said he has often wished that he could be classed as a Maryland farmer, and hopes that someday he may have a farm of his own.

Is Welcome Atmosphere

"There is an equal satisfaction in living in the wholesome atmosphere found on the farm", the speaker declared. "You never hear of any farmer boys getting into serious trouble. You never hear of this thing called juvenile delinquency among farming people. And it's because farmers live in a wholesome atmosphere, without the distractions of city life. They live lives of service, with full knowledge of the importance of farming and of their responsibility. Stick to the farm", he concluded.

The banquet was attended by about 125 members, parents and friends of the Future Farmers. Perry Shryock of Oldtown, president of both the Allegany County Future Farmers and State of Maryland Future Farmers, presided as toastmaster. Guests were introduced by James House, county advisor to the Future Farmers of Allegany County.

Awards were presented to Osborne Ayers, Mt. Pleasant; Fred Keister, Centerville, and Harold Morris, Flintstone. Ayers was awarded a second prize for general farming and a year's membership in the County Farm Bureau Association; Keister was awarded a second state prize for his competition in a corn project; and Morris was also awarded a year's membership in the Farm Bureau.

Boys Make Reports

Reports were made by Bernard Twigg of Oldtown on "The Flintstone Fair"; by Harold Everline of Beall high school, on a visit to the Frederick Fair; by Randolph Stafford on "Vocational Field Day College"; and by Perry Shryock on Future Farmers' accomplishments in the county. Shryock said the county group has 120 members, all of whom are active.

Entertainment included several musical groups from Fort Hill high school. An instrumental trio composed of Miss Dona Zembower, (marimba), Royce Hendrickson, (accordian) and John Miller, (electric guitar), offered several selections. The Ambrose brothers played two coronet duets, and the Robeson sisters, Ina Lee and Anna Ruth Robeson sang several numbers.

Motion pictures on agricultural subjects were shown and there was also a program of group singing.

Ladies of the church, assisted by Mrs. Marshall Twigg prepared and served the dinner. The church pastor, the Rev. H. Hall Sharp, gave the invocation.

CELANESE AND UNION WILL RESUME WAGE TALKS TOMORROW

A wage negotiation session between Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, and the Celanese Corporation of America, planned yesterday afternoon, was postponed and a company official said the session will be held tomorrow afternoon at the Celanese plant.

The company has made no new offer since the union last week rejected a company offer of a five per cent increase which union officials said did not include employes of the warp knitting, dyehouse and cafeteria departments.

The TWUA union has called special membership meetings next Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. and Thursday at 10 a. m., according to a notice posted in the union hall by William Boyd Coleman, president.

The agenda includes a report by the negotiating committee on wage discussions at the Celanese plant; action taken by a recent meeting "calling for a strike vote will be discussed and acted upon, and a report on the TWUA convention held in Atlantic City last week will be presented.

At meetings held April 17 and 18, the local rejected a wage increase offer and authorized that, upon recommendation of the negotiation committee, the executive committee is authorized to arrange for a meeting to take a strike vote.

BAKERY AND BREWERY WORKERS NEGOTIATE FOR WAGE INCREASE

Although working agreements with Cumberland bakeries and breweries have expired, officials of Local 246, Bakery and Confectionery Workers Union, AFL, and United Brewery Workers of America said contract negotiations are continuing and declared untruthful rumors of impending strikes.

Howard M. Dixon, secretary of Local 246, Bakery Workers, said the local's contract with four local bakeries expired yesterday but added that negotiations are being continued and that the public will be advised in plenty of time if a stoppage is ordered.

The union official said a wage demand is the major demand but did not indicate the amount of increase asked for the seventy-five workers.

Orville L. Young, president of the Brewery Workers local representing about 225 workers of the Queen City and Cumberland breweries, said the union's contract expired Tuesday but that work is continuing under an agreement which would make all increases retroactive.

Brewery workers are asking an eighteen and one-half cents hourly increase. Union and company officials will meet next Tuesday for further consideration of the union demands.

Juror Fails To Return For Trial after Lunch

A civil appeal case got underway yesterday morning in circuit court with the usual number of jurors—twelve.

As court resumed in the afternoon after recessing for lunch, eleven of the jurors returned and were accounted for. The twelfth was unaccounted for. Court attaches presumed the juror either became ill or misunderstood instructions of the court.

However, hearing of the case continued after attorneys for both parties agreed to proceed with eleven jurors on the panel.

Court attaches said the missing juror was J. C. Albright, Ellersie.

Accident Totally Disabled Woman, Jury Decides

A circuit court jury yesterday afternoon decided that Mrs. Virginia W. Frantz suffered total and permanent disability as a result of an accident in October 1944 while she was an employe at the Luke plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company.

The case was an appeal filed by Mrs. Frantz, through her attorney, Edward J. Ryan, from a decision of the commission which allowed her fifty per cent disability.

Chief Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judge Walter C. Capper presided at the lengthy hearing at which Mrs. Frantz, who had to be assisted to the witness stand, testified that she is still wearing a corset with steel braces as a result of injuries to her back.

Tried To Dance

Horace P. Whitworth, attorney for the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, asked Mrs. Frantz if she was able to dance, and she replied, "No, I tried to dance, but I couldn't" because of her back injuries.

She also testified that a physician advised her to try light work at the plant but no employment of that type was available, according to plant officials.

Asking an injunction against their next door neighbors, Carlos P. Logsdon and his wife, Mrs. Pauline M. Logsdon, 115 North Allegany street, a petition was filed in court yesterday by James M. Reed, Edward C and Anna R. Reed.

Claim Property Damage

The petitioners, represented by Estel C. Kelley, contend that the roof of the rear porch on the Logsdon home extends under the roof of the porch of their home, and that rain and snow from the Logsdon porch roof causes considerable damage to their property.

Associate Judge Walter C. Capper signed an order for Mr. and Mrs. Logsdan to show cause before May 20 why the injunction should not be issued and the porch roof changed.

Dance Is Planned At AFL Convention

Final plans for the 1946 convention of the Maryland and District of Columbia Federation of Labor to be held here May 13 to 16 were completed last evening at a meeting of the local committee on arrangements, according to C. E. Stutzman, local chairman.

Robert J. Buxbaum, Baltimore, president, and Frank J. Coleman, Washington, secretary-treasurer of the state council, met with the local committee.

Stutzman said the chief difficulty faced by the committee is housing and added it might be necessary to send some delegates to Bedford, Pa., and Keyser, W. Va., and other communities near here.

Plans were formulated to hold a dance here Tuesday, May 14, in honor of the more than 400 delegates expected to attend the affair.

The committee is still counting on the presence of William Green, AFL president, at the convention, the labor official said.

The sanitarians' meeting, which will be held in connection with the main meeting, is under the direction of A. L. Sullivan, state food and drug commissioner. On Thursday afternoon, May 16, the sanitarians will make an inspection trip to a modern bakery under the guidance of F. A. Korff, director of the bureau of food control of the Baltimore city health department.

Back Shops, Bolt And Forge Reopen

The back shops and bolt and forge shops of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad here resumed operations yesterday morning after a ten-day suspension of operations, according to H. F. Wyatt, division superintendent.

Almost 1,000 men have been furloughed on the Cumberland division, according to Wyatt. He added that 412 men returned to the backshops, but that sixty-two of them will be furloughed indefinitely and that ten of the 339 men returning to the bolt and forge plant also will be furloughed indefinitely.

The Cumberland division has 400 men in the transportation department furloughed and of this number fifty-five are located in Cumberland. Three hundred men are furloughed in the motive power department and 240 have been furloughed in the car department. A total of 126 Cumberlanders were furloughed from the motive department and fifty-four from the car department.

Brewers Adopt Program To Boost Supply of Beer to Marylanders

BALTIMORE, May 1 (AP) — State Comptroller J. Millard Tawes announced today that as the result of a meeting at his office with representatives of seven Maryland brewing companies, a program had been worked out which would "appreciably increase the supply of beer to Maryland consumers."

He said the brewers had agreed on an eight-point program, calling for:

1. The addition of no new customers from outside the state.
2. Reduction of sales to out-of-state customers by the same ratio as those of Maryland customers.
3. Inauguration of a survey of out-of-state shipments to prevent deliveries to black market operators.
4. Use of the survey to determine where out-of-state shipments may be cut to offset the reduction of shipments into the state by outside dealers.
5. Exercise of measures to assure the consumption of all beer sold in Maryland by Maryland consumers.
6. A definite plan of equalized, fair, and orderly distribution.
7. Emphasis to distributors on the necessity for following the program as it applies to them.
8. Encouragement of orderly distribution and discouragement of black market operations among retail customers.

Tawes said he had not issued any regulations regarding export of beer, as he was authorized to do under the law. He added he did not believe any such regulation would become necessary.

"Maryland is committd to the policy of encouraging the use of beer and light wines," he said, "and we want to avoid any situation that would tend to encourage substitution of the use of hard liquors for beer.

"In this crisis every effort must be exerted to do everything possible to give Maryland beer consumers a fair deal."

F. Brooke Whiting, representing the Queen City Brewing Company and G. William Bibby, the Cumberland Brewing Company attended the meeting.

Baltimore and Ohio Engineer Retires After 49 Years of Railroading

Ira A. Bittner Makes Last Trip at Helm of Crack Ambassador

By AUGUST T. BRUST, Jr.

Engineer Ira A. Bittner walked down the steps under the Queen City station Tuesday night, entered the car foreman's office and observed that he didn't "know what I'll be doing tomorrow night."

Then he took off his cap, exposing neatly trimmed gray hair, and started signing a sheaf of papers handed to him by W. G. Schell, assistant road foreman of engines on the east end of the Pittsburgh division of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad.

Bittner was signing his retirement papers after railroading since June 23, 1897, the first three years as a fireman and the last forty-six as an engineer.

A few minutes before 9 p. m. Bittner walked up to the big Diesel engine hauling the westbound crack Ambassador passenger train of the B. and O. and swung aboard. At 9:03 p. m., he eased the train out of the station for Pittsburgh. Less than four hours later he had completed his last run.

Formula for Success

Before Bittner left Cumberland for his last trip, he told a reporter that all engineers, to be successful, should comply with the rules "and keep sober. That's about the shortest answer I can give you."

He said he experienced several minor accidents in his career, but added that it "is impossible to advoid them sometimes even if you do know all the rules."

Bittner said he had many interesting experiences in his career but that he can't recall many of them offhand. "When I'm done with a day's work, I forget about it. I don't bother about it the next day," he said.

"Some fellows, when they see a road foreman, say they're gettin' hell. Not me, I never took it that way," Bittner stated, recalling one occasion when a road foreman of engines approached him.

"'Son, I got a report about you handling a train rough,'" Bittner said the road foreman told him. "He called me son but I was a great deal older than he.

"The fellow that reported to you didn't report to me, I told him. You may as well throw your report away because you've got all the information you're going to get."

Tied Up at Sand Patch

Another occasion that Bittner recalls is the 1936 flood.

"I got tied up at Sand Patch from Tuesday evening to Thursday morning because of the flood," he said. "Couldn't go either way. The B. and O. fed us out of No. 16's dining car. He was tied up there too.

"The passengers took it all right when they learned what the trouble was, and some of them made arrangements to get to Meyersdale by automobile."

Bittner, who was exactly 70½ years old on Tuesday, said he hasn't laid many plans for the future although he does not intend to leave Pittsburgh until the housing shortage "eases up."

"All I ever did was work," he pointed out. "I like to hunt and fish a lot but haven't done it since I was a boy. If I live long enough I might get back to it.

"I've been kidding the missus about an empty house at Fairhope that's right along a trout stream."

Children Make Trip

While Bittner seemed to be taking his resignation in stride, it was quite an occasion for his children. Members of the family, boys, girls and grandchildren, from Pittsburgh, Detroit, Philadelphia and Cumberland, were here Tuesday night to help the engineer get started on his last run.

They rode the Ambassador to Pittsburgh where the rest of the family greeted Bittner when he pulled in.

A former resident of Cumberland, Bittner left here ten years ago, but railroading has brought him back to this city almost daily since.

Naval Officer Completes Survey For Reserve Unit

Commander Richard D. White, of Norfolk, Va., culminated a two-day visit and survey here last night with an address to the Cumberland Council Navy League at a meeting in the city hall auditorium.

Commander White came here to make preliminary local plans for the establishment of a naval reserve unit in Cumberland, comprised of 200 men and thirteen officers.

Yesterday and the day before, White conferred with a number of local navy reserve officers including William H. Geppart, W. Earle Cobey and others. He also talked with Mayor Thomas S. Post, Commissioner of Streets and Public Property Myers G. Light and City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer, regarding housing for the reserve unit.

The commander explained that an armory must be leased, rented or constructed here, to serve as a training center and headquarters for the unit, and space of 200 feet by 125 feet is desired.

Several Sites Considered

Yesterday he made an inspection of the Merchandise Mart, the former Footer Dye Works plant, and said last night that there is sufficient space available there, if the building is strong enough in the floors to hold heavy training equipment. Several other sites are also being considered, he explained.

During the day he also conferred with David I. Kauffman, president of the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce and called at the offices of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce where he obtained information relative to industries, population and other facts regarding the community.

At the Navy league meeting last night, Commander White explained that the naval reserve unit to be formed here will be one of twenty-eight units in the Fifth Naval District which embraces Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and a part of North Carolina. Thirteen divisions will be formed in Maryland with twelve in Baltimore and one here.

The local division is to be based upon training of fifty ship's carpenters, fifty water tenders, fifty ship fitters and fifty machinists mates, plus thirteen officers. He explained that the reserve will meet for study, drill and training one night each week.

Explains New Setup

Navy veterans of World War II will be given first consideration for enlistment in the reserve and young men with no service will also be eligible.

Men who join will be paid upon the basis of one day's pay for each weekly drill and two weeks pay for the summer cruise, which is a part of the program. This is equivalent to about two months of base pay at regular navy rates each year, the commander explained, and means that much additional payroll to the city.

The new navy reserve should not be confused with the prewar reserve, Commander White told his audience. In the old setup, he explained, when the reserve units number seventy men instead of the proposed 200 now, men spent much time drilling and marching. The new reserve, he stated will spend most of its time studying and learning trades and skills. The reserve is more of a trade school than anything else, he declared, and the best instructors obtainable will be sent here to conduct classes.
